(International News Service)
LONDON, June 13.—American war planes roared out from air-strips on the beaches of France and dromes in Britain today to blast a wide variety of targets along the fighting fronts and far to the rear as part of a day of tremendous activity in the French skies.

Medium and light bombers and fighter-bombers of the Ninth U. S. Air Force struck as far inland as Tours, attacking airfields, anti-aircraft gun emplacements, enemy ground defense crews and even individual Nazi soldiers in foxholes as they raced toward their main objectives. Speedy Thunderbolts were especially active, "bombing and machine-gunning every object they could find," according to official spokesmen.

LONDON, June 13.—Allied sky fleets gave the German war machine in France a renewed drubbing today to follow up gigantic R. A. F. night assaults against the Nazis which were marked by a resumption of large-scale attacks on war industries in the Reich.

Squadrons of the heaviest bombers in the British arsenal blasted four vital rail centers in France, bridges at Caen in the battle area, and hammered the synthetic oil producing center of Gelsenkirchen in Germany's Ruhr valley, and the Rhine industrial city of Cologne.

The strong forces of Lancaster bombers left "very large fires" burning in Cologne. Some rose to heights of several miles.

By CLARK LEE
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE 101ST DIVISION AT CARENTAN, June 13.—Carentan was in American hands today after the 101st airborne division, which went into action for the first time on the Cherbourg peninsula, clinched seven days of brilliant fighting by wresting the town from the Nazis. The town, whose normal population is 3,500 persons, fell after a bitter three-day battle which ended in street fighting. Even now the 101st division is engaged in close combat with German paratroopers only a quarter mile to the west of the town and the streets echo and resound to the sound of shells, machine guns, mortars and Nazi swift automatic weapons.

The Germans obviously had intended holding Carentan, sending in the paratroopers by truck on D-day to bolster prepared defenses. (Continued on Page Two)

Washington Roundup

(International News Service)

From Washington, the office of war information today is beaming to Europe and the Pacific rebroadcasts of President Roosevelt's optimistic war report made in opening the fifth war bond drive. In the summary, the president speaks of ultimate victory, says the allies achieved the impossible in invading France and declares the Pacific conflict will end much sooner than had been thought possible.

The president's words and developments in the Pacific foreshadow important coming events in the war against Japan. Aerial assaults by land and carrier based planes softening up Japanese positions on a wide front indicate another important "D-Day" in the war against the Axis is drawing near.

As to the invasion of France, military observers say the allied strategy is to tie up and hold powerful German Panzer units in the Caen sector, thus permitting American forces to expand toward Cherbourg. Vigorous fighting of the French underground is giving rise to the possibility that large areas of France may be liberated by these undercover forces. This, it is pointed out, may help resolve the conflict between French Gen. Charles DeGaulle and Washington in the general's favor.

On the political front a responsible group of influential southern Democrats are urging Republican leaders to put a fusion ticket into this year's presidential campaign by nominating a regular Democrat for vice-president.

In congress, a house subcommittee announces it is getting ready to launch a year's delayed investigation into food prices.

Stiffer German Resistance Is Encountered Says Naples Report On Advance

INLAND ADVANCE BEING CONTINUED

By LARRY NEWMAN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

NAPLES, June 13.—American mobile columns, now 77 miles northwest of liberated Rome, advanced against stiffening German resistance today while Allied forces to the right moved ahead more rapidly after overcoming stubborn enemy opposition.

Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth Army encountered resistance from Nazi forces covering the enemy withdrawal along the Tyrrhenian coastal road. This opposition was particularly stubborn south of the port of Orbetello, guarding the causeway into San Stefano which was reported abandoned during the weekend.

Inland Advance Rapid

Inland, in the Lake Bolsena sector, the advance was more rapid with South African armored units attached to the Fifth Army advancing toward Orbetello after battering down stiff resistance around Baginoro.

"Fierce" fighting was reported to have flared in this sector. The enemy also continued to resist south of Terni, which is a key four-way rail and road junction in central Italy.

The advance by the British Eighth Army on the Adriatic sector was described as proceeding "unchecked" (Continued on Page Two)

Oil Refineries In Hungary Hit

NAPLES, June 13.—(INS)—Allied bombers staged a "blockbuster" raid early today on German oil refineries within Hungary to maintain the fourth day of attacks on Nazi oil stocks within the Balkans.

The two-ton explosives were rained upon refineries near Komorn, northwest of Budapest.

Medium bombers meanwhile, concentrated on enemy-operated railroads, bridges and trains as well as road traffic over which the Germans fled before the advancing allied armies in Italy.

Naval Guns Play New Part In Drive By Land Forces

By CAPT. JOHN H. CRAIG
(Written Especially for N. S. S.)

Fact of outstanding military interest in the capture of Carentan, most important Allied gain since the consolidation of the invasion beachheads, was the decisive part played by naval gunfire in the taking of the town. According to dispatches, the two old U. S. battleships Nevada and Texas lay in close to the shore and pulverized the defenses of the strategic Norman city with giant high explosive shells, rendering possible the final pay-off advance of the infantry.

Large Scale Air Attack On Munich Today

NAPLES, June 13.—(INS)—A great force of up to 750 heavy bombers today attacked targets in Munich, including the Overpoffenhofen airbase, an ordnance depot and an automotive works.

It was the second time in a week that Munich had been hit by bombers operating from Italian bases.

Other heavy bombers attacked the railway yards at Innsbruck, Austria and oil installations at Porto Marghera near Venice.

Intense anti-aircraft fire was encountered over Munich. Maj. Herschel H. Green of Mayfield, Ky., shot down one plane over the city, raising his total to 18, the best bag for this theatre.

German Guns On Channel Active

LONDON, June 13.—(INS)—German long-range batteries in France opened up against the coast of England early today.

The enemy bombardment caused shell warnings, in the Dover area for a period of more than five hours. It was after dawn before the alerts were ended.

Correspondents on the southeast coast of England estimated that the Germans lobbed 50 heavy shells across the channel at various intervals.

There were at times long periods of lull, but at other times the shelling was heavy and sharp. Houses from Folkestone to Dover were shaken by the enemy action.

Armored Legions Drive Through Swamp And Forest On Karelian Isthmus

STUBBORN DEFENSE BEING ENCOUNTERED

By NATALIA RENE
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, June 13.—Soviet armored legions threatened their way today through swamp and forest terrain of the Karelian Isthmus forcing Finnish and German defenders from more than 30 additional strong points.

Information reaching neutral Stockholm from Helsinki indicated that the Finnish authorities, fearing a complete Russian breakthrough, are evacuating the civilian populations from Karelia and Viipuri.

As the fourth day of the new Russian offensive got under way, the Red army had covered from 18 to 22 miles in their forward sweep.

Huge Russian guns which paved the way for the drive continued to support the armored and infantry forces which were declared officially to be "advancing and striking at and annihilating enemy troops". Soviet airmen also effectively supported the land forces.

Despite the fact that the lake-laced country is particularly suited for defense, the Red army continued its advance along the railroad toward Viipuri and spread out to take Multala and Tormelovo on the right flank. Strongest of the 30 or more places occupied yesterday were Kivennapa and Raivola. Important points on established rail and highway routes.

By KINGSBURY SMITH
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, June 13.—In a wide swinging movement designed to pinch off unbroken Caen, Allied troops today captured the Norman town of Troarn, while on the western sector of the Cherbourg peninsula the village of Montebourg was seized by American forces.

Enemy prisoners now exceed 10,000.

Five Allied airstrips are now in operation on Cherbourg soil.

By J. C. OESTREICHER
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

The fate of Cherbourg was virtually sealed today when American troops under cover of a naval bombardment stormed into the French village of Montebourg 15 miles to the south and clamped a firm foothold on the main road running into that great English channel port.

With the Allies holding area in northern France now a full 80 miles in width and a satisfactory situation apparently prevailing in all areas, the battle for the Cherbourg peninsula appeared to be entering its final phases.

The next step will be reached when Allied troops cut the French state railway line at Montebourg or Valognes to the north, for when this is done reinforcement of Nazi contingents will become impossible, and the probabilities are that supply routes already have been almost nullified by land, sea and air bombardment.

How many bonds should a fellow take, well how much is freedom worth, what would you pay to keep tyrants away, keep freedom alive on the earth. How much is it worth to retire at night and know that your home will be there when you wake in the morning untouched by the bombs, no war planes abroad in the air. How much is it worth to have freedom of speech, to worship as you wish to choose, how much is it worth to read papers each day and know you are getting the news. These questions have answers and you must decide, what bonds you'll be laying away, then buy what you think all these freedoms are worth, it's seventy-seven today.

Final Action On G. I. Bill Is Near

Measure May Become Law Before End Of Week Is Capital Forecast

(BULLETIN)
WASHINGTON, June 13.—(INS)—Congress gave its final approval today to the "G. I. Bill of Rights" and sent the broad veterans' benefit legislation to the White House. President Roosevelt is expected to sign the measure before the end of the week.

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, June 13.—(Final) congressional action on the "G. I. Bill of Rights" was expected today with the likelihood that President Roosevelt will sign the veterans' aid measure into law before the end of the week.

House leaders were planning to give the measure the right of way to complete legislative action. The measure must pass the conference report similar to that unanimously voted by the senate yesterday. The measure will go to the White House following house action. President Roosevelt is expected to sign the bill without undue delay.

House leaders said they would try to gain approval of the conference agreement without debate. "If we can adopt the agreement by unanimous consent without debate, it will save a lot of time," said majority leader McCormack. "I think we should be able to do so. Members placed themselves on record some time ago, and no debate should be needed."

Rep. Rankin (D) Miss., chairman of the house conferees who reached an agreement with senate members last Saturday after the conference had been deadlocked for three weeks, also said he would seek approval without debate.

"G. I. Bill, sponsored by the American Legion, provides for the rehabilitation and demobilization of returning veterans of world war II. It provides hospitalization, education and vocational training, opportunity loans, employment and unemployment allowances.

A job placement service will be created in the veterans' administration under supervision of a board of three members: Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, veterans' administrator who will act as chairman; selective service director Lewis B. Hershey and Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator and manpower chief.

Under the unemployment compensation provision a veteran may draw $20 weekly while unemployed for a total of 52 weeks. Loans to help veterans purchase homes, farms or small businesses are authorized in the measure. The bill provides for private loans to veterans at four percent interest with the government guaranteeing 40 percent, up to a $2,000 maximum of the amounts of individual loans. Veterans shall be charged with any loan or unemployment benefits obtained under the bill in event a bonus is voted in the future.

If a veterans education was interrupted when he went into the service—the bill establishes a presumption of interruption if he put on a uniform before the age of 25—he could get a year's schooling and in some instances a complete college education.

And northwest of Novosokolniki, Soviet infantry captured Nazi trenches and held them against repeated enemy counter-attacks.

NAVAL GUNS PLAY NEW PART IN DRIVE BY LAND FORCES

Naval gunfire, in addition to the most intensive air bombardment recorded in war has rendered possible all of our subsequent advances.

New Type Of Technique
This is a new fact in war's technique because for 100 years previous to the present struggle naval vessels were not believed capable of engaging land fortifications. Gen. MacArthur and Admiral Nimitz first countered the rule in their Pacific battles and reaped great dividends of success. Now the new tactical method is being applied on a great scale in Europe.

Besides, Carentan, where an American spearhead is driving across the Cherbourg peninsula, aimed at the isolation and capture of that all-important port, the most important strategic action took place in the neighborhood of Caen, where British forces are trying to gain the high ground beyond the Orne river, from which direction the eventual Nazi counter-attack is almost certain to come—if it comes at all.

Doubt German Move
Tactically, an armored drive by Nazi forces from the heights east of Caen, aimed at cutting across the entire Allied beachhead, would seem the correct German move. But strategists are beginning to doubt if Marshal Erwin Rommel will risk his armor on the open plains where the present beachheads are established, within range of Allied battleships and Allied air attack.

According to this school of thought the Nazis will withdraw for the final decisive battles to their new defensive line about 50 miles inland. So the Nazis may prefer to lose the port of Cherbourg for the sake of gaining a more favorable battleground.

held islands of deliver a second punishing blow was viewed as indicative that the attacks were successful but the Nimitz announcement did not state whether the assaults were continuing, the extent of the damage inflicted, or the nature of the opposition encountered.

From his southwest Pacific headquarters, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced in his Tuesday morning communiqué that long range Liberators of his command were continuing their assaults on Palau Island, strong Jap naval base 500 miles east of the Philippines and several hundred miles southwest of the Marianas. Enemy air strength which might have come to the defense of the Marianas was thus diverted.

The two-day raid was of the same duration as the initial attack on the Marianas by a "bruiser" task force Feb. 21-22 which devastated ground installations and the latest smash was believed to have been fully as destructive.

Rota was mentioned for the first time yesterday but the communiqué said the island had been struck "again," indicating that it was included in the Saturday assault along with Guam, Tinian, and Saipan.

As the Germans continued to fall back toward an assembly place in the Florence area, fighter-bombers and medium bombers of the Mediterranean airforce continued to smash at their lines of communications. Railroad, bridges and motor transport were pounded from the air.

During the early morning hours Nazi oil refineries in Hungary were subjected to a two-ton "blockbuster" raid. It was the fourth straight day of attacks against enemy oil supplies in the occupied Balkans. Meanwhile, the Allied armies scooped up a "few scattered remnants of Nazi Field Marshal Albert Kesselring's routed 14th army."

The routed Nazis—their 14th army having ceased to exist as a military formation—were given no opportunity to reform. The Americans maintained contact with them, and an official spokesman revealed that the scattered Germans were mainly engaged in stealing each others' transports in order to flee as quickly as possible.

railway centers of Amiens, Arras, Cambais and Poitiers in France. These assaults, along with the attacks on bridges at Caen, resulted in the loss of 23 bombers.

Other night bombers operating over France, made up of forces of medium and heavy bombers, pounded the rail center of Mezieron and other rail and road targets in the same area. Four of these planes were lost.

Planes of the British bomber command also mined German-controlled waters. The attacks against the Reich cost the R. A. F. 17 planes missing. An official statement said that 1,000 R. A. F. planes were in operation during the night.

Heavy Cross Channel Activity
Cross-channel air activity was extremely heavy during the night and the Germans themselves made several stabs which brought three alerts to London. The entire British capital was alerted twice and some sections were given siren warnings a third time. The final all-clear in London was not sounded until after dawn.

The sharp night action followed a thunderous day of operations, directed mainly against the German military machine in France, in which some 10,000 sorties were flown against the enemy.

Heaviest of these blows were struck by American heavy-weight bombers, 1,400 strong, in assaults against 16 German airfields and six bridges in France.

Germans Over England
German night operations over England include some activity over parts of East Angles, southeast and southern England. Bombs dropped by the Germans caused some damage and a small number of casualties.

Brief bursts of gunfire followed each alert. During the second some high explosives were dropped in the London area, causing some casualties. Other persons were trapped in debris.

The fortress and Liberator formations which operated yesterday comprised the largest striking force of heavy day bombers ever dispatched from England. They plastered the 16 airfields over territory from Dreux to Lille and hammered six rail bridges in the St. Nazaire and Paris areas.

The 101st, however, fought its way through the swamps and across a wide waterway to outflank and surround the town. Entering the town at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, the Americans found most of the Germans had withdrawn about an hour earlier. Some, however, remained and fought to the death from concrete machine gun nests.

By 11 o'clock the town was ours. Last evening the Germans attempted a counter-attack but were halted by our artillery, which fired smokebombs and 203 high explosives only a short distance ahead of our troops. Bursting shells seemed to turn the entire hillside west of Carentan into a sea of flame.

Today, incidentally, was the first time that I saw a French flag with the name of Gen. Charles De Gaulle flying together with many other tricolors.

Some 2,000 inhabitants of Carentan covered in the cellars during the allied air bombardment, while the remainder fled to the countryside. They welcomed us cautiously, still not certain whether the Germans are returning.

FIFTH WAR LOAN DRIVE IN COUNTY GETS GOOD START

Civilian Defense. In Hillsville Boy Scouts passed out cigarettes.

The tour ended at New Castle where the band was served dinner by the USO. At 7:30 a band concert was presented upon the public square and a number of short addresses made. Two speakers were heard, Judge W. Walter Braham, chairman of the Lawrence County campaign and Rev. G. S. Bennett, head of the USO. They were introduced by Roger W. Jewett, executive director of the GNCA. Following the band concert the American Legion gave the soldiers a party in the Legion Home.

Veterans Speak
Two men from the Deshon General Hospital Annex in Cunningham Park accompanied the band on tour and spoke at various places. The two were 1st Sergeant Harold Harshman of Uniontown and Pfc. Elmer Reihing of Toledo, Ohio.

With Churchill were field marshals Jan Christian Smuts, premier of South Africa, and Gen. Sir Alan Brooke, chief of the imperial general staff.

The Americans went ashore to visit in French towns and view battle sites from a destroyer. They were conveyed from the destroyer in a patrol craft and an amphibious duck, and landed at a point where some of the bloodiest D-Day fighting took place.

Equipped with side arms, the officers took a fast trip inland at the risk of being spotted by German snipers.

BE PREPARED—and save your relatives a lot of worry

With our experience of many years, we insist that the first thing people should do is to make a Will, and be sure and have it made by a man with experience, so that all the little details will be taken care of, and it will be so written that dissatisfied friends and Courts can not change the meaning or the intention that you had in mind.

Next, we insist that you select and talk with a good funeral director, one who has had experience, who is interested in his work and has succeeded in the community, making sure that the work will be satisfactory in every way.

Third, select a lot in the Cemetery that you prefer, and be sure that the Deed you get for your lot, allows you some privileges at least, and that the wishes you intended, and the desires of your relatives afterwards, may be taken care of, as there is a great difference in the Deeds given to you by different cemeteries.

In doing these things, you are using good judgment.

Three Hundred Thousand Strong

IT'S HARD to get three hundred thousand Army trucks into any kind of picture. They take up as much room as several million soldiers . . . Of course they are now scattered all over the world behind the battle lines and on the fighting fronts. They range from the husky six-wheeled BIG SHOT down to the smaller weapons carriers and command reconnaissance cars. They include thirty thousand ambulances—official Army vehicles of medical rescue on practically every front . . . We have tried to build these Army trucks to give the officers and men who are doing the real fighting the dependable support they deserve. All of these Army trucks are direct descendants of the famous Dodge Job-Rated Trucks you see today faithfully hauling milk, foodstuffs, fuel, production materials and other wartime essentials.

We have been authorized to produce 1 1/4 and 2-ton DODGE Job-Rated TRUCKS for rationing to purchasers for essential wartime civilian use. See your Dodge dealer.

Biak Important To Japs

Importance the Japs attach to Biak Island, off northern New Guinea, may be gauged by their frantic efforts to reinforce their battered garrisons there, even risking some of their carefully hoarded naval units in the process.

The fifth enemy reinforcement attempt was smashed by a naval task force of our own, which sent five destroyers fleeing northward, one of them believed hit by shell fire.

The prizes we seek—and the Japs are loath to yield—are the three airfields on the island, one of which we have already captured. With them in our possession we shall have bases about 800 miles from the Philippines. If the Japs do not want us within bomber distance of those stolen islands, they will do their best to keep us out of Biak. That is apparently the answer to their desperate reinforcement attempts, which thus far have had no success.

Where The Germans Are

Germany has approximately 5,000,000 troops spread out over Europe. The most recent figures available, compiled in mid-May by the Anglo-American intelligence services, indicated that the greatest bulk of these armies was concentrated along the Eastern Front, from the Black Sea to the Gulf of Finland. The figure was put at 195 divisions, or more than 2,000,000 men.

In northern France and in Holland, the estimate was that there were 50 divisions, including several panzer units—at least 750,000 troops. It was believed in mid-May that there was almost an equal number of German divisions in southern France, guarding the Mediterranean and the Biscay sectors, perhaps another 750,000 men.

The Nazis were calculated to have approximately 25 divisions in Italy, about 20 of them involved in the defense of Rome. How many of these estimated 375,000 soldiers have been casualties in the Italian fighting is a matter of conjecture.

The remainder of the German troops were somewhat thinly spread—25 divisions in the Balkan district, 12 of them in Yugoslavia; 12 divisions in Norway, seven in Finland, five in Denmark.

To supply all these armies on so far-flung a line is a task of immense magnitude and it was on this phase that the Allied bombing attacks have been concentrated. Each German-operated munitions plant destroyed has meant that many more worries for the German service of supply.

As other blows fall, the German leaders are going to be even more perplexed. How large an army they will have 60 days hence is anybody's guess.

New Hopes And Old Fears

Interest in the invasion of Europe has all but blinded some persons to operations in other theaters of war. As an antidote to great hopes for a rapid conclusion of the war against Germany, it is only necessary to look to China, where again a strong Japanese army is fighting for Changsha, key of Hunan Province. Before this appears in print Changsha may have fallen.

This is the third time in six years that the Japs have tried to take the city. This time they may be successful—and continue into the Rice Bowl upon which the Chinese depend for much of their food. Here is a situation to cause the Allies grave concern.

If actual front conditions are considered, things are much better in India and Burma. The Japs at Kohima are on the run, and Allied troops have made advances at Imphal. Yet even here hopes of annihilating a large part of the enemy forces are dwindling.

The monsoon is hampering Allied operations, and although the Myitkyna airfield fell to General Stilwell weeks ago, the Nipponese holding the city show unexpected resistance.

There is one factor which undoubtedly will encourage the Chinese to keep on fighting no matter what the odds. After seven years of the unequal struggle in China things for the moment look bad, but surely the Chinese can glimpse deliverance over the horizon.

Though conditions in Europe may change, there is strong evidence that Germany's defeat is drawing nearer. Then the whole armed might of the Allies will be directed against Japan.

Three Phases

The first phase of Allied invasion of France has been accomplished. This first phase was described by General Eisenhower's headquarters as "the securing of a foothold and the defeating of local German reserves."

The Allied Armies of Liberation may momentarily enter the second phase—the task of defeating German "tactical reserves." Then will follow the third phase, described in the headquarters statement as the job of crushing "strategic reserves"—massing for a desperate and ferocious counter-offensive.

It sounds simple, almost prosaic, in the military language of that brief comment from General Eisenhower's headquarters. But the grim meaning was made somewhat clearer when Secretary of War Stimson said:

"We must look for the full fury of savage counter-attacks in force at any early moment."

"It would be folly to believe that the period of counter-attack will be short. Conditions will be changing from day to day, and it will be to our own good to avoid excesses of optimism or pessimism."

Earnest study of Secretary Stimson's words is commended both to the impatient optimists who are looking for Germany "to crack any day, now," and to the hand-wringing pessimists of the "Isn't it awful?" school.

Where Was The Luftwaffe?

A mystifying feature of the Allied invasion operation in Normandy was the failure of the Luftwaffe to oppose our first landings in any force.

Lieutenant General Barney M. Giles, General Arnold's second in command in the Army Air Force, has declared that the Germans missed their best opportunity to inflict serious damage when they failed to send their planes into action on D-Day.

Air opposition was expected by the invasion commanders and they were surprised. General Giles commented, when it did not develop.

Air resistance was feeble, and the beachheads were established. Why was the Luftwaffe held back? Was it just a colossal error on the part of the high command, was it part of a comprehensive defense plan, or is the shortage of German planes more serious than we had thought?

If the Germans could have had our air force for only one day, as General Giles points out, and had used it against the invasion, there would have been no landings. But we had the air power and it was not, for whatever mysterious reason, challenged.

When the Germans in Italy started making tracks for home, they stepped on the gas.

Congress Revolt

WASHINGTON, June 13.—What happened in the house the other day escaped general notice because people were preoccupied with news of the great battle. Actually it was a revolution, nothing less.

It was a revolution against the little group of men who have set themselves up as an all-powerful committee to decide what legislation congress shall consider. There are 435 members in the house. There are 14 members of the house rules committee, and six or seven is usually a working majority.

This little handful of wilful men—southern Democrats with two or three Republicans—have undertaken not merely to say what the house shall consider. They have refused to grant priority to legislation until it has been trimmed and amended to suit their individual tastes.

Here's how they get away with it. Before most bills can be brought up in the house, they must be granted a rule by the rules committee. That is a working procedure which the obstructionists have seriously abused.

Went Too Far

The other day they went too far. The legislative committee—contracted to a procedural committee—had held long, painstaking hearings on extension of price control. The banking and currency committee had done a thorough job of study and analysis.

Then what happened? Along came the rules committee and disregarded all of this work. They contracted to a procedural committee—had held long, painstaking hearings on extension of price control. The banking and currency committee had done a thorough job of study and analysis.

Great Game Of Politics

Political Effect

WASHINGTON, June 13.—THE MOST interesting political speculation at this time concerns the effect upon the Republican National Convention, to be held two weeks from now in Chicago, of the Allied success in the capture of Rome, followed in swift heels by the vast, dramatic and overwhelmingly momentous invasion of western Europe.

AS TO the convention, there are differences of opinion on this question. There also are widely separated views as to the effect upon the subsequent campaign. But those differences are a matter of degree. There is entire agreement on the basic fact that the Republican convention and the Republican cause have been done no good. There is no way by which they can benefit. That much is sure. The fact, of course, is that the war is the great Republican handicap of 1944.

IF THERE were no war, Mr. Roosevelt would not be a candidate because he could not be elected. If there were no war there would be no vestige of excuse for a fourth-term candidacy. If there were no war there would be no argument about not "changing horses while crossing the stream" and no political capitalization of the position of Commander in Chief. If there were no war there would be nothing to stem the undoubted trend of the country against the administration and the New Deal, manifested in so many elections since 1940. The most recent manifestation was last Tuesday when the Republicans elected a Congressman in a New York City district that had been Democratic for 25 years. It was one of many.

BUT THERE is a war and how it goes—and everybody hopes—to go very well, and it reaches its grand climax just before the Republican convene to pick their candidate and adopt a platform. If, of course, was not the case, the invasion had been especially designed to diminish national interest in these things, it could hardly have been better timed. It is possible fully to hold national attention for a political convention with the people as a whole so eager for war bulletins that they demand newspapers faster than they can be printed and keep their ears literally glued to the radio. In all probability, that will be their condition when the Republicans meet in June 26.

Clearly it is not a particularly felicitous position. Denunciation of the President and indictment of his management of home affairs are bound to fall a little flat in the midst of the terrific clash of our armies with the German armies. It will be more difficult for the convention orators to make eloquent speeches, harder to "ring the bell" while the outcome of this historic engagement is still in doubt. On the other side, the Rome victory and the invasion are undoubtedly assets for Mr. Roosevelt. While of course it is not charged that they were framed for political purpose, it is certainly true that that speech on the fall of Rome was well calculated to soothe both Italian-Americans and Catholics while his prayer delivered the night after the invasion was unquestionably more effective than any campaign speech in normal times would have been.

FURTHER, should in the next five weeks, as all hope, the victory be gained by our forces, the enthusiasm of the Democratic Convention which meets on July 19 would be great, indeed. Even if victory has not been gained by that time, the conditions would strengthen the argument for the renomination of Mr. Roosevelt. It is no easy situation for the Republicans to deal with, but it is not altogether without compensation. For one thing, it should persuade them generally of the necessity for unity and intelligence. It ought to result in the selection of the best possible ticket and the adoption of the best possible platform.

It ought to insure against mistakes both of commission and omission. Certainly, it will be essential for the Republicans to make their declaration not only for the prosecution of the war but for the future of international cooperation, clear cut, forceful and unequivocal. It is the sort of situation that rules out pussyfooting and trimming. It is the sort of situation in which the opposing party has to "come clean."

IF THEN, the victory over Germany is complete before November (and such is the confident belief of our military authorities) the Republicans, with a first-class ticket and a first-class platform, would be in fine position to appeal to the country. They could argue more forcefully that the war being virtually over, a change in administration is not only desirable but necessary for the national interest. Under these easily conceivable circumstances, they might not have to do a great deal to convince the voters. The trend would be in this direction.

BECAUSE THE people are pretty well fed up with the New Deal they are overripe for a change. Every election and every primary in the past year has evidenced this. Only the war stands in the way. Once that argument has been nullified, the Republican prospects are better than ever. Particularly is this so, if they have the courage to make a real issue of the Roosevelt-CIO link, to bring out the shameful CIO war record in its present dominance of the Democratic party and make clear its complete sponsorship for the fourth-term campaign and the controlling position in which it would be in the event of success.

LOOKING AT LIFE

By ERICH BRANDEIS

David Gayton, 13, and Elinor Medina, 16, are being held for their juvenile delinquencies in Los Angeles.

The two kids decided that were in the "A" list they had the symptoms. So they ran away from home and set up housekeeping in an abandoned, roofless pump-house and considered themselves husband and wife.

They swiped some old furniture and in daytime worked in a nearby onion field to support themselves. Elinor cooked their meals on an open fire in front of their home, moon moon. A giant pepper tree provided shade for romance and for the sun.

The two were sublimely happy but David's father found the two great lovers and turned them over to the juvenile authorities.

Probably they'll be put away in some institution for a while and once again love will have been conquered by reality.

Of course, their procedure was all wrong from a legalistic, practical and moralistic point of view.

Fusion Ticket Urged On G.O.P.

Influential Southern Democrats Advocate Unusual Nomination Plan

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
(U.S.S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, June 13.—A responsible group of influential southern Democrats today are urging Republican leaders to put a fusion ticket into this year's presidential campaign by nominating a regular Democrat for vice president.

The southerners are advancing the names of three old-line Democrats: Sen. Harry Flood Byrd of Virginia, Gov. Sam Houston of Louisiana and Gov. Coke Stevenson of Texas. The southerners say any one of the three would accept the GOP vice presidential nomination if it is tendered him.

Important Republican leaders are now mulling over the proposal but decline to discuss it publicly. They are aware that the party's presidential nominee—yet to be chosen—usually has the final word on naming his own running-mate and they have no intention of embarrassing that nominee in his choice.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York is way out in front for the GOP nomination at the moment, though Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio refuses to concede the New York victory. Both Dewey and Bricker have declined to discuss vice presidential possibilities in advance of the GOP convention, which meets June 26 in Chicago.

It is a curious fact that some of President Roosevelt's closest advisers now favor a New Deal coalition ticket with a Republican as Mr. Roosevelt's running-mate. Justice Felix Frankfurter is credited with favoring this course and the naming of Justice Owen J. Roberts, a Pennsylvania Republican, as the Democratic vice presidential nominee.

The southern Democratic move to get a Democrat on the GOP ticket was given publicity over the last week-end when J. E. McDonald, Texas commissioner of agriculture, wired Republican leaders in many states urging a fusion ticket "to eliminate the New Dealers and save our constitutional form of government." McDonald favored a ticket of Gov. Bricker and Sen. Byrd, or Byrd and Bricker.

McDonald declared a fusion ticket would carry 11 southern and border states, having a total of 120 electoral votes. He said the Byrd-Bricker combination would win in Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana, Tennessee, Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico against a Roosevelt ticket.

WITH THE BRITISH FORCES IN FRANCE, June 13.—Heavy fighting raged all day yesterday and all through the night around the French town of Tilly-sur-Seulles southwest of Bayeux.

All that's left of Tilly is a few walls, some piles of rubble and other debris. Many dead bodies litter the entrances to the village and are strewn through the surrounding orchards.

British troops used flame throwers for the first time yesterday on a wood where the Germans had used the same weapons the previous night. The Germans also have further reinforced their troops in front of Tilly.

Americans on the British right flank again made considerable progress Monday, deepening their bridgehead several miles as they drove toward Saint Lo.

Tell Of Visit Of Churchill To French Coast

By EDWARD V. ROBERTS
Representing the Combined U.S. Press
(Distributed by I.N.S.)

ADVANCED ALLIED COMMAND
POST, June 13.—A shuddering naval barrage hurtled into the German-held coast below Cherbourg. The destroyer HMS Kelvin coasted to a stop. A stocky figure went to the rail and trained his binoculars. For 10 minutes he studied the effect of the Allied fire, nervously biting on a black cigar.

"Then the prime minister thrust his cigar to a jaunty angle, lowered the binoculars, smiled and gave the V sign with his fingers," correspondents on the Kelvin reported today. The guns of the fleet still were thundering as the vessel bearing Winston Churchill, Premier Jan Christian Smuts of South Africa and Gen. Sir Alan Brooke, chief of the Imperial General Staff, resumed its course to the Allied beachhead.

Robert Barr, representing the Combined Allied Press, said most skippers seemed to recognize the burly figure on the bridge as the destroyer threaded through shipping so thick it "looked like some vast industrial town with miles of closely-set smokestacks." Many ships gave the familiar V-signal with their whistles.

The party stepped ashore just after noon at the point the Canadian Vanguards stormed on D-Day. At lunch a formation of German fighter-bombers made a quick dash on Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's headquarters but caused no damage. Allied ack-ack got one German plane.

British officers told Churchill a 16-year-old German soldier had been captured under a bush outside headquarters after hiding there three days. The boy apparently was too frightened to come out when he found they had built a headquarters around his hiding place," they said.

The party toured the beachhead for six hours, talking with Montgomery, observing landing operations and once traveling by boat up the shore to where the British and American lines join.

LONDON, June 13.—(INS)—A first-hand account of what he saw on the beaches of France yesterday was given to King George VI today by Prime Minister Winston Churchill in an audience at Buckingham Palace. Churchill was accompanied by Admiral Ernest J. King, head of the U.S. Fleet.

Small Ships Had Very Large Part During Invasion

Without Countless Hundreds of Small 'Work-Shops' D-Day Might Have Failed

NEW YORK, June 13—(INS)—A "ferry fleet" composed of thousands of small, non-seagoing vessels used as repair shops supported the invasion of France, a BBC correspondent reported from London Monday in a broadcast heard by CBS. British Reported, Michael Standing said that among the tiny ships which braved the choppy and treacherous seas of the English Channel were old Thames river barges which are now serving as repair shops along the beachhead.

On D-Day, said Standing, "two slow moving convoys of hundreds of barges and small craft set out from British ports. He added: 'They were the ferry fleet. They struggled through the choppy seas at a painful three knots, a sitting target all the way. They were shelled by German trawlers at night, bombed and machine-gunned by day.'

Chandler Predicts Roosevelt On First Ballot In Chicago

LOS ANGELES, June 13—(INS)—"It will be President Roosevelt on the first ballot at the Democratic convention—if he chooses to run."

That was the prediction today of Kentucky's Democratic Senator A. B. Chandler who came to Los Angeles to attend the marriage of his actress daughter, Mimi Chandler, 17, to Maj. John Kennedy Cabell of the Ferrying Division of the Air Transport Command, stationed at Palm Springs.

The wedding is scheduled for 4:45 p.m. Thursday at All Saints Episcopal church.

Sen. Chandler said he thought both President Roosevelt and the Republican leader for the nomination, New York Governor Thomas E. Dewey, had the right to hold out as long as they want before making any announcement of their candidacy.

"Our outfit fought its way to a huge limestone cave to relieve a British force," he said. "The entire battalion was trapped under a mammoth cliff with the enemy lines only 200 yards away."

PITTSBURGH—There are four degrees of intoxication, according to Judge Blair F. Gunther, who recently objected to the term "visibly intoxicated" in an Allegheny county court case. "A man can be high, mellow, exuberant or polluted," he informed a liquor agent.

STATE COLLEGE—Dr. George L. Zundel, plant pathology specialist at Pennsylvania State College, received $15 in Chinese stamps from Dr. Lee Ling, of Nanking University in exchange for a scientific paper. The stamps are worth 37 cents in United States money.

NORRISTOWN—Future brides in Montgomery county will have marriage license forms like the rest of the state instead of the century old English forms formerly used by the district. The change went into effect in 1943.

"...beyond the call of duty..."

"For extraordinary heroism beyond the call of duty . . . with his commander shot down . . . the squadron under murderous anti-aircraft fire . . . he dive-bombed the battleship at a perilously low altitude . . . his plane riddled with bullets and afire . . . crashed into the sea in flames . . ."

Bombing a battleship or swarming off a landing barge onto a bullet-swept beachhead may sound to you and me like service "above and beyond the call of duty" . . . but the fighting men don't count it so. Fighting men are supposed to do that. It's in the line of duty.

When they win decorations . . . or their widows tragically receive them . . . it is for deeds so courageous and so self-sacrificing as to stand out heroically in an action where every man is a hero. We folks at home can't match this courage and sacrifice. We can't earn decorations for buying war bonds even if we buy them to the point where we think it hurts. But that is the best way we can try to match them. And the Fifth War Loan Drive is our chance to try.

War is no time for small men or little deeds. Regular bond buying is not enough. That is our duty. It is going to take bond buying far "above and beyond the call of duty" from all of us.

Will you try to double what you did before? This may be the only way you can "fight by his side."

ALUMINUM COMPANY OF AMERICA

With more than 22,000 men and women of Alcoa already in the armed services, the remaining 95,000 of us have a dual responsibility . . . to continue to turn out aluminum in unbelievable quantities for the war . . . to buy more and more War Bonds to help pay for all the material of war which will bring these 22,000 and the millions of other Americans home sooner.

Winning a war requires a flood of money, as well as vast quantities of munitions and supplies. Our obligation—and yours—to lend our money to the nation is as solemn as our obligation to produce the goods. Our help today will be our best security after the war.

NEWS AND VIEWS AT CAPITAL

HARRISBURG, June 13—The threat of two Pennsylvania delegates to the Republican national convention to bolt to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, will provide the candidate opens in Chicago June 29.

Both W. Clyde Harter, former Lycoming county GOP chairman, and James Rutherford, of Honesdale, telegraphed the New Yorker pledges of support after the 70-member state delegation failed to endorse any candidate for the Republican nomination.

The State Liquor Control Board has won much favorable editorial comment for its iron-fisted enforcement campaign outlined by Gov. Edward Martin. Although tardy, campaign has improved local conditions in taprooms according to newspapers.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief Many sufferers relieve nagging backaches quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day, poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 million of kidney troubles flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

school committee named by Gov. Edward Martin to study revision of Pennsylvania's outmoded educational system. Briefly the plan calls town and city schools to contract with rural school boards to educate rural children, the town providing teaching, personnel facilities and transportation.

A peace time extension educational program for returning servicemen was proposed today as "one way by which communities may meet their obligations to returning servicemen."

J. Otis Keller, assistant extension supervisor at the Pennsylvania State college, suggested a program similar to the school's technical training to upgrade men and women for war jobs. Such a program would appeal to veterans with families who find it inconvenient to leave their homes, he said.

Keller added that the program should include training on both the high school and college levels emphasizing academic and vocational subjects.

Clocks are seldom given as wedding presents in China, where they are considered bad omens.

Small Ships Had Very Large Part During Invasion

Without Countless Hundreds of Small 'Work-Shops' D-Day Might Have Failed

NEW YORK, June 13.—(INS)—A "ferry fleet" composed of thousands of small, non-seagoing vessels used as repair shops supported the invasion of France, a BBC correspondent reported from London Monday in a broadcast heard by CBS. British Reported Michael Standing said that among the tiny ships which braved the choppy and treacherous seas of the English Channel were old Thames river barges which are now serving as repair shops along the beachhead.

On D-Day, said Standing, "two slow moving convoys of hundreds of barges and small craft set out from British ports. He added: "They were the ferry fleet. They struggled along through the choppy seas at a painful three knots, a sitting target all the way. They were shelled by German travelers at night, bombed and machine-gunned by day."

The barges, the broadcast revealed, are identified as "LBER"—landing barge emergency repairs. In their holds are complete machine shops with lathes and a welding plant. There are carpentry benches, lockers full of spare parts and in the stern a smithy's forge, complete with furnace and anvil.

"There is not much glory for these cooks, engineers, carpenters and the rest," said Standing, "but without them . . . the whole great exploit could not have been undertaken."

Chandler Predicts Roosevelt On First Ballot In Chicago

Senator From Kentucky Goes To California To See His Daughter Wed

LOS ANGELES, June 13.—(INS)—"It will be President Roosevelt on the first ballot at the Democratic convention—if he chooses to run."

That was the prediction today of Kentucky's Democratic Senator A. B. Chandler who came to Los Angeles to attend the marriage of his daughter, Miss Chandler, 17, to Maj. John Kennedy Cabell of the Ferrying Division of the Air Transport Command, stationed at Palm Springs.

The wedding is scheduled for 4:45 p.m. Thursday at All Saints Episcopal church.

Sen. Chandler said he thought both President Roosevelt and the Republican leader for the nomination, New York Governor Thomas E. Dewey, had the right to hold out as long as they want before making any announcement of their candidacy.

BRIEF NEWS OVER STATE

PITTSBURGH—There are four degrees of intoxication, according to Judge Blair F. Gumbler, who recently objected to the term "visibly intoxicated" in an Allegheny county court case. "A man can be high, mellow, exuberant or polluted," he informed a liquor agent.

STATE COLLEGE—Dr. George L. Zundel, plant pathology specialist at Pennsylvania State College, received $15 in Chinese stamps from Dr. Lee Ling of Nanjing University in exchange for a scientific paper. The stamps are worth 37 cents in United States money.

Bombing a battleship or swarming off a landing barge onto a bullet-swept beachhead may sound to you and me like service "above and beyond the call of duty" . . . but the fighting men don't count it so. Fighting men are supposed to do that. It's in the line of duty.

When they win decorations . . . or their widows tragically receive them . . . it is for deeds so courageous and so self-sacrificing as to stand out heroically in an action where every man is a hero. We folks at home can't match this courage and sacrifice. We can't earn decorations for buying war bonds even if we buy them to the point where we think it hurts. But that is the best way we can try to match them. And the Fifth War Loan Drive is our chance to try.

War is no time for small men or little deeds. Regular bond buying is not enough. That is our duty. It is going to take bond buying far "above and beyond the call of duty" from all of us.

Will you try to double what you did before? This may be the only way you can "fight by his side."

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backaches quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 1 pint a day. When disorder of kidney function permits poisons to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, redness under the eyes, headache and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! ## Education Program For Heroes Of War

STATE COLLEGE, PA., June 13.—A peace time extension educational program for returning servicemen was proposed today as "one way by which communities may meet their obligations to returning servicemen."

J. Orvis Keller, assistant extension supervisor at the Pennsylvania

State college, suggested a program similar to the school's technical training to prepare men and women for war jobs. Such a program would appeal to veterans with families who find it inconvenient to leave their homes, he said.

Keller added that the program should include training on both the high school and college levels emphasizing academic and vocational subjects.

Pledge Support To Fifth War Bond Campaign

PHILADELPHIA, June 13.—(INS)—Leaders of organized labor in Pennsylvania have pledged all-out support of the Fifth War Loan campaign. William H. Kern, labor relations director of the Pennsylvania war finance committee, announced today.

James I. McDevitt, president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, informed Kern that "the production line workers are determined to make available to our government every possible dollar in the purchase of bonds during the Fifth War Loan drive."

The president of the Pennsylvania Industrial Council, John A. Phillips, asserted "CIO in Pennsylvania is 100 per cent behind the Fifth War Loan drive."

"Our boys are invading Hitler's European fortress. We here at home cannot evade our responsibility," Thomas A. Kennedy, secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers, termed the purchase of war bonds "an act of prudence which will pay many-fold dividends."

lines and mark time until Mr. Roosevelt makes up his mind. Talk about cynicism!

Moreover, by his silence Mr. Roosevelt is leaving his supporters and party members in Congress out on a long, uncomfortable limb. They dare not start promoting another candidate, lest they find, in later months, the President's wrath upon them because they opposed him.

"This would come, of course, after the current shrinking-violet stage and after he had emerged as a full-fledged 'indispensable' candidate."

So the position of the Democratic party boils down to this: Defeat is certain if the President does not run, and he won't say. There is a possible chance for victory if he does run, but, again, he won't say. How can a politician plan for the future in a situation like that?

The inconsistency of the New Deal complaints about Mr. Dewey become more apparent, as time goes on. He isn't upsetting his own party. Rather, he is adhering to the principle that anybody has a right to run for President if he thinks he can win. He isn't interfering with those who are seeking the nomination. But as much cannot be said for Mr. Roosevelt, whose attitude appears to be that if he cannot win he is going to make certain that nobody else in his party has the opportunity to do so.

The bids were taken on what it would cost the city in interest and the Freeman company charged the least, or $7.734.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

slow. If the boy who inflicted this fright were to befriend these children and prove to them he is their protector from now on, the effect would be good. When that child has night terrors some one should go to her, of course. But they can best be reduced or prevented by helping the child to be more calm and secure by day.

This letter suggests that all parents not only should themselves guard against saying or doing anything which might inspire fears in the young child but also that we should see to it that older children never amuse themselves by frightening younger children. Perhaps you have seen an older child jump out from behind a dark secret place to scare a brother, sister or playmate or run after him with a live or dead worm, mouse or snake threatening to put it "down his neck." Also many older children take delight in telling younger ones all sorts of weird terrifying things "just for fun."

Serious Offense

When you see your child trying to frighten anybody else, deal sternly with him. Mere rebuke may not be enough. Effective, instant punishment may be desirable. Treat it as a very serious offense. Sometimes you can get good results by making it clear to the offending child the harm he might do and by appealing to his imagination in such a way as to lead him to realize through his own imagination how long the damage might last.

But as not nearly all other parents will so guide their own children, your little child is always a possible victim. Be on the alert for such tragedies and exercise your greatest wisdom and skill to help your child overcome the fear and to grow immune to further ones. To keep him away from other children is not the best procedure. He needs to be hardened but to get his hardening gradually.

ever, a town of considerably more importance, lies directly astride the railway line and the two highways that lead into Cherbourg, one from Coutances on the west and the other from St. Lo on the east.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower disclosed that 250,000 Allied troops now are operating in France and it was apparent that great masses of this strength were advancing on the rail hub of St. Lo from captured Cherbourg on the west and the east.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower disclosed that 250,000 Allied troops now are operating in France and it was apparent that great masses of this strength were advancing on the rail hub of St. Lo from captured Cherbourg on the west and the east.

By KINGSBURY SMITH
Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, June 13.—American capture of Montebourg was reported both in German broadcasts and a front-line dispatch today in extension of the Allied invasion area in France to a width of 80 miles.

CBS in New York heard a late BBC broadcast which quoted a correspondent at supreme headquarters as reporting that "American patrols are believed to have pushed within 11 miles of Cherbourg."

While the Germans admitted that a "narrow wedge" was driven into Nazi lines east of the Orne River in the Caen battle area, the Allied threat to Cherbourg and the entire peninsula which bears its name mounted by the hour.

Five Miles From Valognes
Montebourg is less than five miles almost due east of Valognes, the railway junction which is the first stop south of Cherbourg and key to the English channel port. It lies north of St. Mere Eglise, taken by American glider troops on the opening day of the invasion a week ago.

Vichy broadcasts said that Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, Allied ground commander, had launched powerful thrusts from Carentan toward St. Lo, railway junction on the Vire river, at the southern end of the Cherbourg peninsula. Heavy fighting is under way 21 miles north of the town, Vichy said.

Editor's note: A CBS correspondent reported that troops of the American Fourth division captured Montebourg "after the stiffest fighting these troops have yet encountered."

Heavy Bombardment
After smashing German storm battalions which cycled over from Cherbourg, this dispatch said, leading elements of the Fourth division were held up outside Montebourg for two days while a heavy artillery bombardment was carried out.

The town was called upon to destroy the tower of Montebourg's medieval church which the Germans were using as an observation post. CBS said, adding: "It was only after knocking the Germans out of the tower that we could advance without coming into direct artillery fire."

United States armored, infantry and paratroop forces battled steadily forward north and south from their beachhead positions, sending one spearhead in the direction of Cherbourg and another toward St. Lo, the peninsula's principal road and rail junction.

Stiff Allied Tank Assaults
The Nazi agency DNB said that the Allies had fought their way to within six miles of St. Lo by delivering stiff tank assaults.

DNB also said that fierce battles were being fought for Montebourg "which is still in German hands." Local enemy breaches east of the Orne river and Montebourg and a small breach east of Tilly have been sealed off, the agency said.

(The Paris radio, operated by the Germans, said American troops had captured the town of Montebourg, 15 miles southeast of the port of Cherbourg.)

Earlier U. S. troops had been reported well beyond Montebourg after bypassing the town.

The offensive action by the Allied forces of liberation, a spokesman at Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters estimated, had drawn one-quarter of the total German strength in northwestern Europe to the beachhead battle area. He said again that the total of German troops involved in the area was about 250,000.

The Yank forces commanded by Lieut. Gen. Omar N. Bradley spread out to the north and south after capturing the strategic town of Carentan, at the base of the Cherbourg peninsula, and ousting the Nazis from the forest of Cerisy.

Heavy Fighting Near St. Lo
Headquarters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said that there was very heavy fighting east of St. Lo, 42 air miles southeast of Cherbourg, where the Yanks were reported battling at points as close as seven miles to the town.

British and Canadian forces remained locked in severe battling with the Germans around Tilly-sur-Seuilles, southeast of Bayeux. The town has changed hands several times. At the time that this morning's No. 15 was issued this morning it was not known whether the Allies still held Tilly.

After acknowledging that strong German resistance was being encountered in the Tilly sector, headquarters said that steady progress was being made in other areas, although there were no marked advances.

The build-up of Allied armies ashore in Normandy was declared to be progressing satisfactorily.

Nazi Groups Scattered
The Germans still did not concentrate major forces at any one spot, using their armor and infantry in scattered groups.

Headquarters said the Germans probably were reinforcing St. Lo now but it was believed that the development of an Allied thrust toward that vital road and rail hub came unexpected to the Germans. Possession of Carentan, 27 miles southeast of Cherbourg, materially strengthened the link established between the two Allied major beachheads which now have been joined to form a front of 60 miles.

The British Canadian bridgehead across the Caen canal still is firmly held by the forces of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery despite all German efforts to establish a line along that canal.

The communiqué said that less than 100 German troops were reported working in Allied warships hammering enemy installations inland. Also, there was less German E-boat activity to hamper Allied cross-channel traffic during the night.

Air Attacks Heavy
Railway targets and German troops and vehicles continued to receive the main attention of Allied aircraft which struck again in great strength throughout the afternoon and during the evening.

Headquarters said that 55 German planes were destroyed in combat yesterday while the Allies lost 39.

Air force photographs showed severe damage was done to seven out of the sixteen German airfields hammered yesterday in assaults by some 1,400 United States Fortress and Liberator bombers. Planes of the Ninth Air Force alone flew more than 2,000 sorties.

A summary of operations given out at headquarters estimated that the Allies had drawn one-quarter of the total German strength in northwestern Europe to the beachhead. A spokesman reiterated that the number of German troops totaled about 250,000.

Miss Alice Joyce, who will be remembered by hundreds of New Castle children as the children's librarian and the leader of weekly story hours for the past 15 years, is leaving for the Veterans' hospital library in Aspinwall.

Miss Joyce's resignation was accepted at a meeting of the library board Monday evening and will become effective June 15. The staff of the library presented her with a farewell gift at a dinner held in her honor recently.

BOMB INNSBRUCK
LONDON, June 13.—(INS)—Heavyweight bombers of the U. S. Air Force bombed the rail yards at Innsbruck today, the Alsiers radio reported in a broadcast distributed by Reuters's News Agency.

Yes, boys you may seriously impede the war effort in our city when you help to create accidents and hazards by blacking out street lights.

"Uncle Sam has recognized the wartime importance of traffic safety lighting. That is why our street lights are maintained while other outdoor lighting has been curtailed."

"This doesn't mean that broken bulbs and shades can be easily replaced. Our government needs the tungsten and other metals used in the manufacture of light bulbs to make vitally needed implements of war. And glass shades are equally hard to get these days because there is a serious shortage of pasteboard cartons used in shipping and packing them."

"I know most boys and girls don't think about these things when they are having fun, as they call it. But once they are given the facts about why they shouldn't break these lights they can be just as patriotic as any grown-up and will, I know, go out of their way to help keep these lights glowing for Victory."

Seek 150 Tons Paper Salvage Here Saturday

Salvage workers, city, county and borough officials, representatives of industry, wholesale and retail merchants and Boy and Girl Scouts will see a salvage picture "Behind the Winning Punch" tonight in the city hall when the film will be presented under the sponsorship of the Lawrence county chapter, Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association.

The picture is said to be effective in its presentation of the salvage problem and the use made of metals and paper gathered by the people of the United States.

It comes at an opportune time for the waste paper drive in New Castle and surrounding townships will be held on June 17 with Collection Chairman Joseph A. Hartman in charge. The paper will be gathered by Boy and Girl Scouts and trucks to haul it to the railroad cars will be furnished by the PMTA and wholesale and retail merchants of the city.

Householders are asked to bundle their newspapers apart from magazines and the brown wrapping paper, to bundle them in packages not more than 15 pounds and to bind them firmly so they will stand the handling necessary.

The last paper drive netted 220 tons in New Castle. This one should net 150 tons for the paper is here.

Largest Crops In Years Predicted

Sees Record Crops This Year With
Least Amount Of Farm
Labor Available

HARRISBURG, June 13.—(INS)—The largest crops in the nation's agricultural history will be produced this year with a minimum of help, the Farm Security Administration forecast today.

Carlson F. Mertz, director of the Pennsylvania agency, declared that this would be possible "due to the efficiency of the farm family."

"I look for the greatest production of crops in the history of United States agriculture with the least amount of farm labor," he asserted. Speaking for Pennsylvania farmers, he said they were "going to it at full capacity" under the greatest handicaps they have ever known.

Large farm owners have increased their acreages, he explained, despite the lack of tools and hired hands. Small farm owners were under even greater disadvantages.

Mertz revealed that 169,027 farms valued at $864,199,795, were operating today in the state.

Sacrifice For Profit

—by BOOTH TARKINGTON
Author of the famous "Penrod" Stories

BOOTH TARKINGTON

Invasion! What other word is so continuously in our minds? If for us today invasion meant the opposite of what it does mean—that is, if America instead of Europe were the direction taken by the invasion—how would we be behaving? How would we, for instance, be responding to the United States Treasury's Fifth War Loan drive?

Of course the answer is that if America were being invaded we'd be giving our bottom dollar and our last shirt, because naturally we'd rather save our skin than our shirt.

George Washington said: "Labor to keep alive in your breast that little spark of celestial fire, called conscience"; and since nothing said being invaded instead of invading Country should go unheeded, every one of us might properly inquire of our own consciences: Should we now be lending to America all the money that we would if a mighty invasion were rolling across the Atlantic toward us, not away from us?

In order to answer this question another quotation from George Washington may be illuminating. Our first President wrote of patriotism: "A great and lasting war can never be supported on this principle (patriotism) alone. It must be aided by a prospect of interest or some reward." No one can accuse George Washington of cynicism; his whole life would refute so absurd a charge. Therefore we may take it that he spoke soberly and we may be sure that there exists no better modern exemplification of his sober wisdom than the War Bond.

The rewards for patriots who support this "great and lasting war" with War Bonds are plain. Intangibly, we gain the emotional steadiness that comes from a clear conscience, from knowing we have done the best with dollars to back up our men with guns. By buying and holding War Bonds, we share in the fight, calm our nerves, strengthen our land, and furthermore we prepare for peace by storing up money that later, when our War Bonds mature, we can spend for ourselves and our children at a time when peace shall have made spending useful rather than weakening and foolish.

Of course the answer is yes! Of course we must put our bottom dollar and our last shirt into War Bonds, just as we would if we were being invaded instead of invading.

George Washington's patriotism makes sense!

Tregaskis Gets Plate In Skull

War Correspondent Still Undergoing Treatment For Wounds Sustained At Front

(EDITORS: Last Saturday, Richard Tregaskis, International News Service War Correspondent, received the Purple Heart at the Walter Reed hospital in Washington where he is recuperating from wounds suffered in the Italian campaign.)

(Shortly after a piece of shrapnel blasted into his head near Cassino last November, Tregaskis underwent an emergency field operation. Partially recovered, he returned to this country for further treatment.)

(Just a week ago, at Walter Reed surgeons inserted a plate of Tantalum in his head. The following is his own story of the operation.)

By RICHARD TREGASKIS
(U.S.S. Staff Correspondent)

WALTER REED GENERAL HOSPITAL, ARMY MEDICAL CENTER, WASHINGTON, June 12.—The day before the operation, the doctor showed me the plate of Tantalum. It was curved, oval in shape, about as big as a tablespoon—and very smooth and streamlined.

The doctor held it proudly between thumb and forefinger, as if it were a new model car or airplane.

Today, just a week later, that plate is part of my skull, firmly in place in the bone, beneath the scalp.

The contour of the skull is now as regular as before it was broken by a German mortar shell in Italy and most important, just as strong.

To me, it seems miraculous that this effective substitute for bone has become part of my anatomy—that I already feel strong and can walk and that within a few weeks, I'll be able to go back to my job as a war correspondent.

But it's all just routine to the surgeons here at Walter Reed hospital where more than 40 skulls have been restored to wholeness with the new metal and method.

For about a year, following pioneer work in army hospitals, the technique has been standard procedure.

Through personal experience, I've been able to learn a few facts about the amazing method of skull restoration.

First, the man with the hole in his head, who's to have a patching job, is checked over with a brain-wave machine, or electroencephalograph, to see how extensive his brain damage is.

Another check is the insertion of oxygen into the spine, by lumbar puncture—effective as a check, but a powerful headache-producer.

Tells Of Operation

Then, the chief of dental service, who makes such Tantalum plates in his spare time, takes a mold of the area to be covered.

From this mold, an impression of the hole or wound, he makes a counter-mold. He cuts a piece of Tantalum, one-fifteenth of an inch thick, to size, and presses it to shape.

Then comes the operation. I was under local anesthesia when I felt the cutting of the scalp as the bone was exposed; and then, the impact of the chisel and hammer: the surgeon's.

geons were chiseling a ledge around the edge of the hole, so that the plate would fit in place.

Once seated, the plate was fastened securely with small wedges of tantalum, just as a glazier fixed a piece of glass in its place. Later, I asked the surgeons about the metal.

They said that it is a rare element, more like lead than silver in its atomic weight.

It is pliable, relatively inert, and most important, it does not irritate human tissue, as silver and other metals do.

I asked the doctors a question which had been bothering me. I wanted to know if the metal was bullet proof. They said no, it wasn't.

Chaplain Rebukes Failure To Write

Letters At Mail Call Mean Better Soldiers, Chaplain Writes To Local Sister

Judging by the infrequency with which the people back home are writing, few of them realize just what letters to the soldiers really mean to the morale of the battlefield, writes Captain John P. Hensley, chaplain in the South Pacific, to his sister, Mrs. J. E. Paton, of the Old Pittsburgh road.

In a letter recently received, Capt. Hensley points out the disappointment of mail calls when there are no letters for many of the men, and the encouragement of hearing their names called out for a letter from home.

"These men are under a strain that those back home will never know," Capt. Hensley continues. "When night closes down around them they like to be able to remember the words that they have read through the day from someone back home who thinks of them."

"I have at least one man a day coming to me and telling me that he doesn't see why his loved ones can't take 15 minutes at a time and drop him a letter, enclosing a few pictures when possible," the captain says.

Hull Assures Latin Nations

WASHINGTON, June 13.—(INS)—Secretary of state Hull said Monday that Latin-American countries have no fear that the United States will hold on to the bases built in those countries, when the war ends.

Hull spoke with unusual feeling in throwing down a suggestion made by a Brazilian last week, who said that Latin-Americans are afraid of what will be done with Brazilian bases now being used by the United States after the war.

This apprehension was expressed by Dr. Hernane Tavares De Sa, Brazilian educator who until a few days ago was an advisor to the coordinator of inter-American affairs.

Hull said today it was utterly absurd to suppose that the United States would make any improper use of these bases.

ROTARY HEARS FINE ADDRESS

Peter T. Campon Gives Splendid Address Of 'The Idealism Of Our Flag'

New Castle Rotary Club members heard a splendid address of Americanism at their noon luncheon meeting, Monday, when they heard Peter T. Campon, who came to this country as an immigrant lad discuss the subject, "The Idealism of our flag."

Mr. Campon in tracing the history of this nation brought out the fact that every citizen of this country is the descendant of those who came here only a few short years back as immigrants, and while they brought with them some of the homelife and institutions of their native land, yet all came here imbued with the spirit of the new land, founded on the highest principles of democracy, and soon lost their native identities.

The main roots of our culture spring from away back, Mr. Campon stated, our religion coming from the martyrdom of the early Christians, our ideals of government from the Magna Carta, America, at its establishment, evolved the principle that all men are created free and equal. This United States phenomena is still in the process of development, he said.

We must expect America to have something to give back to the countries from which America sprung. The American melting pot has made many splendid Americans, as has been proven by the racial background of those who have given their lives to preserve the American way of life.

America will endure, he stated, as long as it remains America. Defining Americanism from the standpoint of an immigrant, he stated that Americanism to him represented the practiced ideals of freedom of religion and the desire for brotherhood, with all.

He said we must all be imbued with the fact that there are sacrifices to be made and parts to be played by everyone. In our hearts there should be the faith and hope that our government shall always remain a government of the people, by the people, and for the people. In this faith we must abide, he stated in conclusion.

Cpl. Blair D. Alverson, a member of the club who is now serving in the armed forces, and who is home on leave, was a guest for the day.

Nurses' Aids Win Reynolds' Praise

Lieutenant Writes Thanks To Red Cross For Sending Aides To Camp Hospital

Nurses' aides can take an extra bow after the letter of thanks which Elizabeth Breslin, executive secretary of the local chapter of the Red Cross, has received from an air corps lieutenant who was in the Reynolds Station hospital.

"I have personally heard the nurses and corpsmen of this ward speak in admiration of the valuable assistance rendered by the nurses' aides," the lieutenant writes. "I for one, thoroughly agree with them and cannot praise too highly the self-sacrifice and patriotism exemplified by these women."

Local nurses' aides from New Castle and Ellwood have been going to Camp Reynolds every Tuesday, every other Saturday, and every fifth Sunday, to assist in the Station hospital. All the women who go serve ten and one half hours each time they go, and many of them give this time in addition to their regular work at the local hospitals.

Mrs. Harry Barkby is in charge of the New Castle nurses' aides who are sent to the camp, and Mrs. R. J. Wilson is in charge of those from Ellwood.

Will YOU Help Make It a Quicker, Less Costly Victory?

Four years ago on the coast of France, it was a matter of "too little, too late" for Freedom's cause. Our Allies staggered under the blows of a better equipped enemy and fell back to the beaches of Dunkirk.

THIS time, let's make it "enough on time." Let's fill... and fill completely... the enormous needs of our Invasion forces for replacement supplies. Let's get this war won without any more costly Dunkirks.

We're sure that YOU, too, want to make this an "enough, on time" Invasion. And that's why we're appealing for YOUR help during this critical hour of history.

If you're in some non-essential, unskilled job, this is the time to pitch in. We need YOUR help in a hurry so that Curtiss Propellers can continue to keep the Thunderbolts, Marauders and other planes of our Air Forces, flying and fighting on toward Victory in Europe.

Will YOU help us produce these urgently needed blades? YOU, personally, can help make the Invasion lead to a quicker, less costly Victory. YOU can help make THIS invasion the final Allied blow for Victory. Take a worthwhile job at Curtiss-Wright NOW.

Germans Blow Up Coastal Airdromes

LONDON, June 13.—(INS)—German airdromes in the coastal region of France already have been demolished, while others further back have been mined in preparation for destruction, pilots of the reconnaissance unit of the tactical air force reported Monday.

This would seem to indicate that there is no immediate prospect of the German air force attacking the Normandy beachhead in force. Rather, it would appear that the Germans intend to conserve all their available fighter plane strength, the loss of which they could not replace, in preparation for battles nearer the Reich.

Air Attack On Palau Destroys Enemy Planes

By JACK MAHON

HEADQUARTERS, FIFTH AIR FORCE, New Guinea, June 11.—(Delayed)—(INS)—Wide ranging Fifth Air Force bombers which have been lashing at the harassed Japs in every section of the southwest Pacific, carried out an audacious night attack on the enemy base of Palau, leaving the runway pocked with bomb craters, planes destroyed and the surrounding area alive with flames.

In a sneak attack June 8, Liberators led by Lieut. Ivan C. Thomas, Mondamin, Iowa, dropped bombs onto the Peleliu airfield in one of the first raids ever hitting the Palau group by land-based planes. The blistering attack caught the Japs completely by surprise although several of their fighters frantically took to the air in an interception attempt.

All our bombers returned safely to base. "We had considerable trouble with the tropical overcast," explained Thomas, "but hearing the target we came into clear weather and the moon was almost full, lighting up the entire area. The Japs didn't know we were coming and probably thought we were only reconnaissance planes."

"We came in and let them have it. Bombs were dropping along the runway where many planes were parked. It was impossible to determine just how much damage was done to these planes, but there were plenty of explosions and it is reasonable to assume that much damage was done."

The crew of Lieut. Thomas' ship, named "I'll Be Around," includes Edgar P. Herrington, Pittsburgh.

Morgenthau Tells Of War's Huge Cost

Speaks At Texarkana Last Night In Ceremonies Opening Fifth Bond Campaign

TEXARKANA, Ark., Tex., June 13.—(INS)—The people of the United States today possessed a deeper realization of the staggering cost of fighting the war to a finish as a result of the impressive nationwide radio address of Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr.

Morgenthau spoke in Texarkana last night during an hour of ceremonies launching the 16 billion dollar fifth war loan drive. President Roosevelt, speaking from the White House, participated in the radio program broadcast over the four major networks.

The secretary of the treasury told his millions of listeners that just for the march from Naples to Rome the cost was $6,700,000,000.

"I leave it to your imagination what it will take to march from Rome to Berlin," he added.

He put at 6 billion dollars the cost of taking the Marshall Islands and asked his unseen audience to imagine what it would cost to go on from there to Tokyo.

Turning to the invasion of western Europe, he described this as the "biggest military project in history" and said:

"Gen. Marshall told me last Wednesday before he left for England that our war expenditures for the last three months of this year will be the highest yet, and we've just started on the beaches of France a flaming war."

The secretary said that by the end of this year the United States will have spent at least 95 billion dollars more and still will be 57 billion short after collecting taxes. That amount must be borrowed through war loans, he said.

There's no substitute for thrift—but sometimes it's impossible to be prepared financially for every emergency. Take the case of Tom Smith*, for instance . . .

1. You know how wives worry about bills. The doctor said Mary'd be fine—she wasn't to worry. But she couldn't stop worrying about those bills that piled up while she was in the hospital.

2. Finally it hit me—the perfect solution! I paid all those bills with a Lawrence Savings Personal Loan. It was easy to arrange—not a bit of red tape.

3. Mary got well in no time. She knew we weren't depriving anyone of money they needed and that we could easily meet those monthly payments. And we did—now we're square with the world once more.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Housewives can save on the price of fresh fish beginning June 17, the Office

According to the OPA order, a nationwide reduction of one cent a pound in the ceiling on sales from primary shippers of fish to retailers, and from many "service and delivery" wholesalers, along with a reduction in the price of fish will be effective Saturday.

Millions Of Ration Boxes Are Made Here

When that G. I. Joe of Yours opens up his "C" ration or his "K" ration over on some beachhead in Europe, or the South Pacific, there probably is a touch of the home town about it. Perhaps he doesn't know it, we didn't either until recently, but millions of the rations that have been shipped overseas have been shipped in boxes made in New Castle.

The Associated Box corporation has shipped millions (that's right, millions) of wooden boxes from the plant on Cedar street, all of them made to hold the ration packages that are a part of every soldier's pack.

No Tin, No Boxes
It started back in 1941. When the Japs took the Malayan peninsula they took 95 per cent of the tin deposits in the world. That meant a reduction in the manufacture of tin plate and of course a sharp reduction in the manufacture of boxes for tin plate which the local company had been making since 1900.

The government needed wooden boxes in which to pack the "C" and "K" ration containers and the local box company was asked to fill an order of 350,000 of the boxes. That sounds like considerable of an order in itself but compared to the subsequent orders it was just a tit-bit. The first order was turned out quickly, and efficiently and was succeeded by other orders. Since then about 28 per cent of all the wooden boxes for rations made have been turned out in the New Castle plant.

"On The Beam"
A trip through the plant is a revelation. Small boards are piled high in half a dozen places. The boards are carried to the nailing machines and in what seems impossibly fast time are turned out as boxes. The most modern nailing machines are used and the process is just another example of American ingenuity.

The boards are placed in the slot or groove or whatever the holding device is called, a pedal is touched and wham, a dozen nails go home. Occasionally a nail or two doesn't quite make the grade and a young lady working nearby corrects the defect. And after watching those young women handle a hammer and nails, we don't want to hear any more about feminine awkwardness in handling tools. About 60 per cent of the 100 employees are young ladies and the description of them working would be "on the beam".

The thought of what the pay envelope will contain on payday may be one reason why they work so fast and so accurately, but somehow we had the idea that the big reason was the girls were thinking of some lad from New Castle who is over there and who may need those rations. Whatever the reason, the plant is a bee hive.

Huge Lumber Use
The amount of lumber used is tremendous. This year the total will approach fifty million feet. The number of nails used is astronomical, and each nail is treated to a rosin bath to give it more "stick-to-itiveness". Each box is also treated to a bath of camouflage solution for a very good reason which needs no recounting here.

Products used in the manufacture of the boxes come from 11 states, while the packers who fill the boxes with the rations are located in 21 states. Where do the boxes go? All over the world and you can pick out any spot you wish where American troops are located and you won't be wrong in marking this as the destination of some of the boxes.

The Associated Box corporation has plants in five cities. New Castle, New Eagle, Pa., Warren and Martins Ferry, O., and East Chicago, Ind. John W. McIlwraith is the executive vice president of the company.

No, this isn't the nut factory. But nuts added to creamed or plain buttered carrots give new flavor, crunchiness, and more nutrition.

Phraseology Of Opinion Changed

WASHINGTON, June 13.—(INS)—The supreme court was on record today with correcting a legal opinion which eliminated a statement that an American citizen used the ballot for "choosing his rulers."

The court's original opinion was written by Justices Stanley Reed and applied to the Texas White primary ruling. Justice Reed wrote: "The great privilege of choosing his rulers may not be denied a man because of his color."

By a vote of 7 to 0 the court changed the phraseology to read: "The greatest privilege of the ballot . . ." Thus eliminating the words "rulers."

Justice Frankfurter and Justice Roberts did not participate in the order. However, Justice Roberts dissented from the original decision.

Nine In Farrell Liquor Violators

PITTSBURGH, June 13.—(INS)—Nine residents of Farrell, all Negroes, today awaited hearings before a U. S. commissioner on charges of dealing in liquor without paying a special federal tax of $27.50 each.

The arrests were made as a result of a three-week probe by the Federal Alcohol Tax Unit and military police attached to Camp Reynolds. The authorities at the military reservation had reported some soldiers had made a habit of traveling the 14 miles to Farrell for drinking parties.

Anti-Fourth Term Battle Is Raging In Ranks In Texas

AUSTIN, Tex., June 13.—(INS)—The bitter fight between Texas pro-Roosevelt and anti-fourth term Democrats raged indecisively today, with both sides conceding that important developments in the forthcoming presidential campaign may hinge upon its outcome.

Of most immediate interest was the question of what decision the Texas supreme court will make upon the mandamus action filed by supporters of President Roosevelt asking the court to order that the names of Roosevelt-placed presidential electors be placed upon the July 22 primary ballot.

The action was filed only a few hours after the state Democratic executive committee, meeting in Dallas, voted 37 to 6 that it was without power to comply with the fourth termers request, that the names of the pro-Roosevelt electors be placed on the primary ballot as are the names of other state nominees.

The functional strife, which had been brewing in the state for months, reached a new peak during the recent state Democratic convention when anti-New Deal delegates overrode a plea of the pro-Roosevelt faction for an instructed delegation to the national convention.

The pro-Roosevelt delegates bolted the convention, assembled a rump convention of their own and named separate slates of convention delegates and presidential electors, all favorable, of course, to a fourth term.

All-Kiwanis Week Will Be Observed

Kiwanians Will Observe Event Next Week As International Convention Opens

More than 2,200 Kiwanis clubs and 131,000 members throughout the United States and Canada will observe All-Kiwanis Week from June 18 to 24. Donald B. Rice, Oakland, Calif., president of Kiwanis International, announced today.

Highlight of the week will be the service organization's limited-delegate convention to be held in Chicago on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, June 20-22, with only 400 international and district officers present.

Usually 5,000 or 6,000 delegates attend international Kiwanis conventions, which occur annually during All-Kiwanis Week, but official representation this year has been restricted in line with a request from the Office of Defense Transportation to "avoid strain on travel facilities."

In a message to clubs preparing now to celebrate the week, Rice declared that "those who are fighting on the home front should strive to match the courage and sacrifice of those who fight in the armed forces."

Fred A. Service Dies In Sharon

SHARON, Pa., June 13.—(INS)—Former State Senator Fred A. Service, 67, died at his Sharon home today following an illness of several months.

Service, who was Supreme Solicitor of the Protected Home Circle, represented the Mercer-Crawford district from 1922 to 1926 at Harrisburg. He is survived by his wife and three daughters.

Fire Damages Big Boston Factories

BOSTON, June 13.—(INS)—An unidentified man was burned to death and seven other men were burned or injured today in a five-alarm fire which swept a plant building occupied by several factories.

Fire Chief Samuel J. Pope said damage from the blaze, which burned with a fury that melted machinery and destroyed great quantities of stocks, would reach $1,500,000.

Channel Skies Overcast Today

LONDON, June 13.—(INS)—Skies over the Dover Straits were overcast at daybreak today. There was an early heavy shower. Later a light south-westerly breeze prevailed. The sea was smooth. Visibility was excellent.

THOUSANDS OF BOATS IN THE Army's "Navy"

MORE than 150 different types of boats—15,000 craft in all—will be manned and operated by the Army Transportation Corps by the end of the year.

Many of these boats are built far inland—moved piece by piece by Erie and other American Railroads to seaports.

Carrying this cumbersome, bulky equipment is one of the important jobs of your railroads today. And the fact that the railroads are able to do this makes possible the building of these boats far from the coast.

Boats are just one of more than 200,000 items your railroads must carry for this one branch of the Army alone.

As the need for this equipment, and the thousands of other vital war materials, grows greater and greater, your railroads must carry increasing loads day after day.

With your continued help and the cooperation of shippers and government agencies, we will keep 'em rolling for victory.

French Underground Is Becoming Active

May Liberate Some Sections Of France From Control Of Nazi Forces

By LEON PEARSON
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, June 13.—The vigorous fighting of the French underground gave rise to the possibility today that large areas of France may be liberated by these forces within the country, working independently of the allied armies of invasion.

French officials in Washington were quick to seize on this development as having far-reaching political possibilities for their leader, Gen. Charles DeGaulle.

A spokesman for the French national committee pointed out that the conflict between DeGaulle and Washington may thus be resolved in the general's favor, even before his proposed trip to this country.

If large areas of France are liberated by French partisans, it was pointed out, DeGaulle's control over these areas would be complete and unquestioned. He would owe no obligation to Gen. Eisenhower who as supreme allied commander, has been authorized to exercise command over the activities of the French committee.

Thus President Roosevelt's refusal to grant full recognition to DeGaulle would come to naught. In these interior areas, he would require no recognition and no agreement with the allies.

Reports from Spain indicated that

German authority in southern France was disintegrating, and that the French underground was staging uprisings and sabotage.

French Patriots Worrying Nazis

MADRID, June 13.—(INS)—Numerous new acts of sabotage by French Patriots becoming increasingly active in the lower Pyrenees near the French frontier were reported today. Particularly violent Patriot anti-Nazi activity was reported in the Franco-Spanish frontier zone.

Sixteen million of the 22 million victory gardens needed this year are expected to be in cities, small towns and villages.

Giants Showing Lots Of Hustle

Slam Dodgers Around 15 To 9 In Home-Run Orgy, Yanks Lose To Senators

By JOHN CASHMAN
(International News Service Sports Writer)
NEW YORK, June 13.—(INS)—The most unpredictable outfit in the National League, without question, is New York. The Giants started the season in handy fashion, establishing themselves as a dark horse in the early running, slumped dizzily into seventh place late last month, and now are only a half game out of third place. On top of that, the Giants are staging a sustained and frenzied batting attack in which they have collected 10 homers in the last three games, after falling off from a period at the plate.

Leading this savage attack is Phil Weintraub, the ex-jewelry salesman who started the season as just another ball player who had had a great deal of tough luck. In co-starring with Manager Mel Ott in the Giants' 15 to 9 win over the Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday, Weintraub crossed the plate five times and knocked in five runs.

The New York Yankees dropped last night's contest to Washington, 4 to 3, in 11 innings.

Players Tangle

The tight game had an added thrill when Bud Metheny, Yank right fielder, and George Myatt, second baseman for the Senators, battled in the eighth when Myatt tagged Bud so hard in a rump play between first and second that Metheny went down.

Bud, highly peeved, flung a handful of dirt at George and then they tangled. Umpires and other players separated them and both were banished from the field.

The Cleveland Indians nosed out the Detroit Tigers 6 to 5 on a five run spurt in the fourth inning in a night game at the Tribe's city. Four pitchers were used by each club.

Pirates Dispose Of Johnny Gee

Lanky Hurler Goes To Giants Via Waiver Route; Two Players May Be Deferred

PITTSBURGH, June 13.—(INS)—A $75,000 package when he was purchased from Syracuse five years ago, southpaw Johnny Gee, 28, Pittsburgh Pirate pitcher, today was traded for the waiver price of $7,500. He goes to the New York Giants where his six-foot, nine-inch height will give literal meaning to the club name on his uniform. Gee was 4-Fed in the draft because of his height.

The lanky pitcher was a disappointment to the Bucs, especially this season when he worked only 11 and one-third innings. Last year he won four and lost four.

The Pittsburgh club announced that two other players had been rejected—one at least temporarily—in the draft. Pitcher Nick Strincevich, 28-year-old right-hander from Gary, Ind., was turned down definitely for gastric ulcers while outfielder Vince DiMaggio, 31, who showed symptoms of the same trouble, will be examined again later following X-rays.

THREE GAMES IN CITY LOOP TODAY

Games Carded For E. & A. Lee Avenue and B. T. Washington Fields

Because the Universal Sanitary-New Castle Retractories field, rear of Deshon hospital annex, Cunningham park, is not yet entirely completed it has been necessary to play the Johnson-Bronze-Uni-Retracs game at E. & A. field at 5:45 p.m. The game originally had been scheduled to play at Marshall field. The Moose and West Pittsburgh will clash at Lee avenue and Shenango Pottery and Alco at Booker T. Washington field.

Church Golfers Clash Thursday

Four more matches will be played in the New Castle Church Golf league at the Castle Hills golf course on Thursday night. The first Presbyterian are leading the league with two matches played in the first half. The golfers are to tee-off not later than 6:30 o'clock.

The league leading First Presbyterians will have the Epworth team as opponents and may find the going a little too tough this time. In another match the Mahoning church will tangle with the Highland U. P. public swingers and McVicker and his gang hope to make it too hot for the North Hillers.

The Harbor U. P. will play the First Christians and will find the going rough, while the First Baptists will clash with the First U. P. team, now reposing in the cellar, but the Clemmore avenue boys hope to escape the dungeon Thursday night.

Revolver Club Meets Tonight

Because of a change in the procedure in obtaining ammunition President Howard Schweinsberg has called a meeting of the Revolver Club for eight o'clock tonight at the Cathedral range. However, the Basic firearms school will open at 7:30 p.m. with William McKee, instructor, in charge.

Last week's results show Frank George high with 97, William McKee, 89, Charles Schweinsberg, 87, James Allan, 84, C. Brunton, 81, and H. Schweinsberg, 82.

Qualification firing will take place tonight for club teams to compete against the Youngstown Revolver club.

Pirates May Get Geary Back Again

PHILADELPHIA, June 13.—(INS)—Shortstop Eugene "Buck" Geary of the Phillies appears headed back to the Pittsburgh Pirates today.

Geary, obtained after the Babe Dahlgren-Babe Phelps trade last winter, never reported to the Blue Jays and General Manager Herb Pennock is expected to return him to the Bucs for another player or cash. Geary has been accepted for military service.

Blackie Fundoots' West Pittsburgh team is fast becoming the wrecking outfit of the circuit. Twice now the Fundootsman have turned the trick on the league leaders which the top flight managers do not like.

Much is anticipated by the I. A. Machinists from Pitcher Paul McCollough. Although aged, he can out them over and hammer 'em out.

Copies of any possible protest by City leaguers must be filed with the league commission secretary the opposing manager and The News.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Going Fishin'?

Muskies are temperamental and so are a lot of muskie fishermen—a characteristic probably engendered in the latter by the former's moody, fickle habits. You can cast a lure or trill a large sucker over a big muskie's lair a score of times without stirring him to action. Then, sometimes, he'll rush for the bait on your last retrieve as though possessed of but one ambition in this world, to destroy and devour that particular bit of terminal tackle, according to Jack Welsh of Campfire Corner.

Fishing for muskies gets to be a phobia with some anglers—fishing for 'em and trying to catch one of record size. Ordinary fish mean nothing to these muskie-maniacs; they'd rather devote all their fishing hours to futile casting for a big fish than to deign to notice what they consider lesser breeds.

Best live bait for muskies are large suckers, creek chubs and river chubs, with the first named probably leading the list. If they're on the prowl muskies will strike at almost any sort of artificial lure. Big spoons, on feathered triple hooks, big bucktails, oversized wooden minnows and spinners with live minnows attached are killers if the muskie happens to be in a killing mood.

American sports are playing a vital role in molding the character of Mexico's younger generation. Mexico adopted the pastimes of American schools and colleges with such whole-hearted enthusiasm that these games are rapidly becoming the national sports of Mexico itself.

Football, baseball, basketball, track, swimming and boxing are a part of the daily lives of every Mexican schoolboy now. When football was first introduced it found much opposition. There were serious doubts that the boys could take the rough and tumble body contact that is so necessary in football without deciding to flatten his opponent then and there. But they could take it. Today football is one of the most popular sports in Mexico.

Pic. Perry Latoria, former Croton lad, is in service in Seattle. Not so long ago he became involved in an argument concerning fisties. His letter received today asked if he were right in his assertion that George Chip was the middleweight champion. He also says Hello to Croton. Reply: Yes, Latoria, Chip was the middleweight champion. He defeated Frank Klaus to gain the title and lost it to Al McCoy half a year later.

Five Teams In Softball Loop

Five Industrial Plants Will Put Softball Teams On Field During Summer

Five New Castle industrial firms had representatives at the Industrial league softball meeting last evening at the "Y" with "Butch" Winters, physical director in charge.

Whether or not a sixth team can be secured is not known at present although the managers would like very much to have a sixth team in the proposed loop.

The firms with managers present last night included: Shenango Pottery, Johnson Bronze, I. A. Machinists, Aluminum Company, and Standard Steel Springs.

The next meeting will be on Monday night June 19 at the "Y" at 7:30 o'clock, when final adoption of rules for governing the league will be up for discussion and a starting date will be set.

BETTINA WINS FROM WALKER

Former Light-Heavy Champ Holds Unpopular Decision, Wright Beats Jannazzo

PITTSBURGH, June 13.—(INS)—The world's former light heavy-weight King Cpl. Mello Bettina, 189, of Beacon, N.Y., held an unpopular ten-round decision today over Buddy Walker, 194, veteran Columbus Negro, in the featured ten-rounder at Forbes Field last night.

In other fights: Beebe Wright, 150, Clanton, Pa., defeated Izzy Jannazzo, 151, of New York in ten rounds; Cpl. Sammy Kelman, 163, Brooklyn, defeated Johnny Lawler, 163, Cleveland, six rounds; Bobby Simmons, 145, Indianapolis, was beaten by Bill Shelton, 140, of Pittsburgh, in a six round decision, and Charley Young, Zivie, 150, Pittsburgh, defeated Jack Besselman, 148, Lawrenceville, Pa., four rounds.

Former Champion Is Some Artist

Mickey Walker Shows Prize Painting To Chicago Exhibition; Is Real Good

CHICAGO, June 13.—(INS)—Among the scores of still life portraits, landscapes and etchings displayed today by 92 artists in the club women's bureau at a large Chicago department store was a painting, "Christmas Masquerade," from the desk brush of Edward P. Walker.

Such an announcement hardly would be an item for the sports page except that the older fight fans will recall the artist as Mickey Walker, the famous "toy bulldog" of a few years ago, who exchanged his boxing gloves for paint and brush.

In the present exhibition, sponsored by the Chicago No-Jury Society of Artists, the former welterweight and middleweight boxing champion was in distinguished company.

Among those whose work was displayed were Maude Phillips Hutchins, wife of Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, and Wellington J. Reynolds, only American to be awarded the Prix De Rome—just to furnish a general idea.

Walker could not come to Chicago because he is preparing to leave soon with former league jockey, and others of a USO group to entertain service men overseas, but the asking price for his offering was reported to be $1,500.

It depicts a child dressed in Santa Claus habiliments about to visit a home in a rural community with snow-covered roofs. The critics thought it was good.

In fact, some said it was a knock-out.

American Legion League Standing

With the first half race of the American Legion Junior league half over, the Cozy Corners are leading the race by the narrow margin of one game over the Wolverines, who in turn are a half game ahead of Dean Park. Cozy Corners and Wolverines are scheduled to meet tonight in a game which will have vital bearing on the league standing.

The league standing is as follows:
	W.	L.	Pct.
Cozy Corners	6	1	.857
Wolverines	5	2	.714
Dean Park	4	2	.666
Fennims	3	3	.500

Sports Promoter Killed In Action

NEW YORK, June 13.—(INS)—Jefferson Davis Dickson, Jr. who went from Natchez, Miss., to Paris and established himself as the No. 1 sports promoter of Europe, has been killed in action while serving as a captain in the U. S. army, it was disclosed today.

Captain Dickson had been stationed in England as a bombing squadron intelligence officer and was lost in a flight near Paris last July. At that time he was reported missing but yesterday the war department listed him as killed in action.

Browns, Surprise Team In Majors

St. Louis Browns In First Place And Manager Luke Sewell Says "We'll Stay There"

By DAVIS J. WALSH
(International News Service Sports Writer)
CHICAGO, June 13.—(INS)—When accosted early today, Luke Sewell was in an expansive mood, and very suitably so, considering his exalted (as of now) station in life. Considering, too, the fact that, in the breadth of two seasons, he has taken form by the scruff of the britches and thrown it down the dumbwaiter shaft with the rest of the empties.

As for instance, he and his Browns were rather widely picked to win last year, and finished a pronounced and noteworthy sixth. Then he was picked for sixth this time and he's first... as of now.

As of next week, or next month, a lot of people may be looking for Luke to break the N. C. A. A. record for the plunge-for-distance, but the man says he has no fears for the future. Not, anyhow, after surviving the salient features of the immediate and intermediate past.

Fair Or Foul

By LAWTON CARVER
(Central Press Sports Editor)
NEW YORK, June 13.—A week-long golfing fiesta started today at Wykagyl Country Club, in New Rochelle, N. Y., with some of the better women performers leading off in a parade that will end with a 72-hole tournament among the top professionals from Thursday through next Sunday. Between the women's 54-hole competition and the professional main event will come amateur and amateur-pro best ball matches.

This is by far the biggest golfing event held in these parts since the bombs fell on Pearl Harbor. The event is being staged by the U. S. Marines, former woman's national champion, has been forced to withdraw by a call for return to duty. This removes much of the glamour from the early women's festivities, but everything prior to Thursday is more or less bull pen pitching anyhow. It's the Nelsons and the McSpadens and the Byrds that the customers will be eager to watch.

They and their fellow-professionals will play 18 holes a day from Thursday through Sunday for $13.33 in war bonds.

Besides that, proceeds will go to the Red Cross giving this event a distinct patriotic motif, and leading to the firm conviction on the part of Fred Corcoran, P. G. A. tournament manager, that a real sizeable sum of cash will be raised.

Undeclared Boxers Are Facing Tests

PHILADELPHIA, June 13.—(INS)—Three Philadelphia boxers stake undeclared records in tonight's outdoor show at The Arena.

Santa Buca and Corp. Jackie Floyd, both unbeaten in pro engagements, meet in a featured 10-rounder and Eddie Giosa, sensational new lightweight, matches gloves against Ellis Phillips in the semi-swing.

Buca has won 21 pro fights, eight by the knockout route and Floyd has a string of 10 victories which included nine K.O.'s, a decision and a draw. Phillips is expected to rank a slight favorite over Giosa.

NEW PET FOR SOLDIERS

"AWOL" is a new pet at nearby Camp Reynolds. A tiny red fox cub which a couple of GIs caught in a drain pipe behind an officers' club building. The little fellow soon will move into his own "fox-house", and Lt. ## INDIANA GRIDDER KILLED IN ACTION

Sgt. Harold Hurling (Hurling) Hurling, former Indiana football star, been killed in action in the Pacific, according to word received in home in Middletown, O. A great passer and kicker on the Indiana teams of 1939 and 1940, Hurling was picked in the professional football draft by the Cleveland Rams, but entered the service before playing any more football after his college graduation.

Bucky Walters... Reds' ace
Infielder with Phils

Bucky Walters, the reformed infielder who has made good as a pitcher for the Cincinnati Reds, is on his way to another 20-game victory season. Bucky, hurling in his finest form, already has compiled nine victories in the campaign to take the lead in the National league standings.

Garden Bowl Is Thing Of Past

Once Great Fight Arena In Queens County Is Now Just Pile Of Lumber

By CASWELL ADAMS
(International News Service Sports Writer)
NEW YORK, June 13.—Just the other side of the huge laundry with the clock for the convenience of sweltering commuters on the Long Island railroad was, up to a few days ago, the Madison Square Garden Bowl. Now, this whitest of all elephants has been torn down and bulldozers are smoothing the land preparatory to using it as a store yard for railroad cars not immediately in use.

For years mere mention of the Bowl, a shallow causer of circus seats out in Queens county, has brought pallor to the cheeks of any Madison Square Garden stockholder. It was built at the height of the depression, in an effort to beat the ball park owners who demanded rental whenever their precious acreage was used for fairs. The Garden decided to go into the outdoor business on its own.

All-Star Team To Be Organized

American Legion Junior League Players Will Assemble For Organization Wednesday

Earl C. Moffatt, chairman of the New York City American Legion athletic committee, has called a meeting and practice session for 6 p.m. Wednesday at George Washington field, when the all-star team which will represent the post in district competition will be chosen.

Most of last year's players are available for this year's team and will form the nucleus for a strong organization which will represent the team in district play.

St. Johns Wallops St. Michaels, 12-4

Scoring seven runs in the second inning the St. Johns team pasted a 12 to 4 licking on the St. Michaels team in a Lawrence County Catholic Baseball league game yesterday at Lee avenue field. The winning hurler was Elias, the loser was Carik.

Heavy hitters in the game were Benaro and Dzemyan.

Score by innings:

St. Johns	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	Total
1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
St. Michaels	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0

Batteries—St. Johns, Elias, and Clavelli; J. Josephs, St. Michaels; Carik Jurina and Dzemyan, Duda.

TIGERS SIGN PLAYER

DALLAS, June 13.—Leslie "Bub" Floyd, former shortstop for the Dallas Rebels of the Texas league, has accepted terms to play with the Detroit Tigers of the American league and will leave shortly.

Ted Turco was signed by Mike Duffley of the Johnson Bronze June 3 which prevents him from playing in the first half of the City league.

Many Boys Are Learning To Swim In Y.M.C.A. Pool

Annual Swim Campaign Is Now Under Way With Youths Receiving Free Instruction

The Annual Free Learn to Swim Campaign at the Y. M. C. A. Pool has been going on for the past week and will continue through this week. More than two hundred non-swimmers are being given instruction each afternoon and indications are that a hundred or more boys will be prepared to take care of themselves in the water when the final lesson is given on Friday.

In addition to the free swim classes many of the boy members of the Association are enjoying the activities at the pool during the regular morning periods.

But the boys are not the only ones who enjoy a swim in the pool these hot days. After the regular periods for the boys the senior members of the Association use the pool each afternoon and evening.

The pool also seems to be a favorite spot for the Service men who are visiting New Castle.

Boys, Senior members and Service men bring the weekly attendance of the Y pool well over the three thousand mark.

This service to men in the armed forces is in co-operation with the local U. S. O. and is greatly appreciated by these men.

No Loss Of Life When Boat Sinks

Liberty Ship Goes Down In Mediterranean Waters On First Voyage To War Zone

WASHINGTON, June 13.—(INS)—The War Shipping Administration disclosed today that the Liberty ship Meyer London has been sunk with no loss of life or even injury to its crew or the navy armed guard.

Capt. Fred H. Rylander, New Orleans, said the vessel was sunk by a torpedo in the Mediterranean near waters several weeks ago. The entire complement was picked up from lifeboats by a British corvette.

The ship, named in honor of a late member of congress, was lost on her first voyage to a war zone.

Nurses' Aide Gives Over 1,000 Hours

Mrs. Lloyd McConnell, 202 South Crawford avenue, has given over 1,000 hours as a nurses' aide in the two hospitals of the city, according to Mrs. Harry Barkby, chairman of the Red Cross nurses' aid committee.

Mrs. McConnell has been serving for 14 months.

Busby Rockefeller plaza in New York City is withdrawn from public use 12 hours each year to retain its status as a private thoroughfare.

Wounded War Worker In Critical Condition

PITTSBURGH, June 13.—(INS)—Ralph Landefeld, 29-year-old Kennedy township war worker, who was shot during a mislaid police trap that brought death to his 23-year-old companion, Edwin Schuler of McKees Rocks, today was in critical condition following his fourth blood transfusion.

Meanwhile, authorities continued their hunt for two alleged ringleaders of a gang blamed for an epidemic of automobile thefts in McKees Rocks and Stowe township, the search for whom led to the Kennedy township tragedy.

Two Ambidge youths are being held as suspects.

More Mail From England Now That Tension Is Lifted

WASHINGTON, June 13.—(INS)—Chances are good that you will be hearing regularly from your soldier in England or on the invasion front from now on, officials said today.

The paucity of mail for several weeks prior to the invasion was one of the most trying wartime crises faced by wives and relatives of men overseas.

War department officials said the easing of transportation problems would result in improved postal service from England and the fighting front.

Post office officials emphasized that there is no cause for worry if letters are slow in coming through to the United States.

"Censorship has become three times as rigid as it was and that slows the mail up tremendously," an official explained.

Post office officials say that mail and packages bound for England have been delivered regularly.

German Bombers Still Held Back

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, June 13.—(INS)—Allied headquarters today estimated that 300 German heavy bombers are in the possession of the German air force at points between Caen and the German frontier.

They have not been thrown into the battle and official observers are mystified as to why they have been kept back.

In contrast, allied aircraft flew 7,000 separate sorties yesterday. It was one of the most effective days since D-day.

Report Rommel Is Dismissed As Chief In France

LONDON, June 13.—(INS)—A report that Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel has been dismissed as field chief of German anti-invasion defenses was published by the London Evening Standard today.

Leslie Randall, correspondent for the newspaper at Allied 21st Army Group headquarters said:

"It is believed that Rommel is out."

"No definite news of Rommel has reached this headquarters since the invasion began, but all pointers are that he is not in command."

"Detailed reports beginning to arrive from France show that Rommel's defense plan has had grave consequences for Germany."

"It is known that when Rommel was in Normandy shortly before the invasion he moved into the coastal zone troops that Von Rundstedt, Field Marshal Karl Gerd Von Rundstedt, had posted some distance behind the front."

"This is exactly what Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery had anticipated. Talking to war correspondents on D-Day, Montgomery said:

'Rommel is too impulsive for a 'set piece' type of battle. I would say that Rommel's aim is to defeat us on the beaches.'"

Spanish War Vets Name Butler Man

GETTYSBURG, Pa., June 13.—(INS)—Oscar J. Sybert of Butler was scheduled to be elected department commander of the United Spanish War Veterans of Pennsylvania at the closing session of the 40th annual encampment in Gettysburg today.

Other officers nominated without opposition were Charles Curry of Philadelphia and John D. Martz, Greensburg, vice commanders; Martin Knuth, Scranton, chaplain, and Allen Lentz, Philadelphia, inspector.

Flying Ace Urges Nation Buy Bonds

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 13.—(INS)—American can't win the big game with a scoreless tie. Flying Ace Maj. Robert Johnson said in an NBC bond rallying broadcast today.

"You buy 'em, we'll fly 'em," said Maj. Johnson, who is credited with shooting down 27 enemy planes.

He likened the war to a football game and said that the "game" is still in the first half—plenty can happen in the third and last quarters.

"But no scoreless tie," he pleaded.

Ceiling On Used Cars Announced

PITTSBURGH, June 13.—(INS)—Ceiling prices on used passenger cars, ordered by the OPA, today were available to residents of the Pittsburgh district.

William H. Longstaff, district price executive for the office of price administration, reported that ceilings become effective July 10. Specific dollars and cents prices at the levels of January, 1944, are set up by model and body type for 23 makes and about 6,000 models of cars manufactured from 1937 through 1942, he explained.

Juke Box Business Now Has Chiselers

PHILADELPHIA, June 13.—(INS)—Price chiseling has now crept into the juke box business, according to the latest word today from the regional office of price administration.

The OPA filed an injunction suit against Irvin Ballen, operator of the Ace Sound Service, on charges that he "hiked" his rental prices for phonographs, amplifiers and other such devices from $6 a day to $11 a day. Ballen, a North Philadelphia man, was also accused of failing to register his March 1942 "top" prices with the OPA.

Johnny Morgan, Fortress Pilot Hero, Prisoner

NEW YORK, June 13.—(INS)—Johnny (Red) Morgan, the flying fortress pilot who became a hero when he forced a wounded crewmate to bail out over occupied Germany, is safe.

Reported missing when his huge fort was seen going down in flames over Germany several months ago, Morgan is a prisoner in a Nazi war prison camp, his father, S. A. L. Morgan, a New York attorney, reported today.

Thus, for a time at least, ends "the saga of the headless pilot," one of the most dramatic stories to come out of this war.

Morgan's story began when he took over command of a flying fortress on which he was flying officer after a shell from a German Focke-Wulf 190 decapitated the pilot and blew an arm off top turret gunner Sgt. Tyre C. Weaver, Jr., of Riverview, Ala., during an air attack on Hannover last summer.

Morgan ordered Weaver dropped out of the fortress by parachute, reasoning that the gunner would bleed to death aboard the plane but might be saved from death by German army doctors below. His reasoning proved correct, for it was later disclosed that Weaver was recovering in a Nazi hospital.

Although Morgan's fort was badly crippled and half his gunners were unconscious from lack of oxygen, Red fought his way on to the target, made his bombing run and flew his ship back to Britain through swarms of German fighters, constantly pushing the body of the dead pilot from the controls.

For this act he received the medal of honor.

Negro Flying Ace Will Be Honored

PITTSBURGH, June 13.—(INS)—Capt. James R. Wiley, one of the first Negro fliers to receive the Air Medal, will be honored by Pittsburgh with a parade and public celebration on June 21.

Captain Wiley, 28-year-old Northside pilot, was a member of the 99th pursuit squadron, the first all-Negro flying group. He participated in 101 missions in the North African, Sicilian and Italian campaigns and was awarded the Air Medal with two Oak Leaf Clusters. He is home on leave before reporting for re-assignment.

Wiley advised growers to consider using whatever containers are available.

Strategy Aim In Normandy Is To Tie Up Nazi Host

By ARTHUR F. HERMANN
(N. Y. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Military observers declared today that the allied strategy in the Normandy invasion is to tie up and hold powerful German Panzer units in the Caen sector thus permitting American forces to expand westward toward Cherbourg.

The effectiveness of the strategy was illustrated by capture of the communications hub of Carentan, the long plume across the peninsula in the direction of St. Lo, and the movement westward which has flanked Montebourg and brought allied forces within a dozen miles of Cherbourg harbor.

Bitter armored battles are taking place on the plains surrounding Caen at the foot of the northern peninsula. The German 21st Panzer division, considered to be the most highly organized tank unit of the entire Wehrmacht, has been engaged in bitter fighting against the British and Canadian beachhead in that sector since the initial landings.

A competent source in Washington asserted that the allied forces would continue relentlessly to oust the Nazi forces from the city of Caen. And, because of its strategic value, it was a foregone conclusion that the German high command would order the most stubborn kind of fighting to hold the city out of the allied grasp.

Military sources were inclined to agree with German estimates that nearly a half million allied troops had been landed on the 80-mile long beachhead so far. It was predicted in Washington that these landings would continue as the allied high command seeks to maintain its numerical and material superiority in the invasion area.

Meantime, the progress of the allied armies in Italy was viewed as contributing directly to the allied fighting in the west by heaping supply and reserve problems upon the German high command. The German situation on the Italian boot has so deteriorated since the fall of Rome that allied strategists now feel Marshall Kesselring may not be able to reform his shattered armies for any determined defense until they reach the foothills of the Alps.

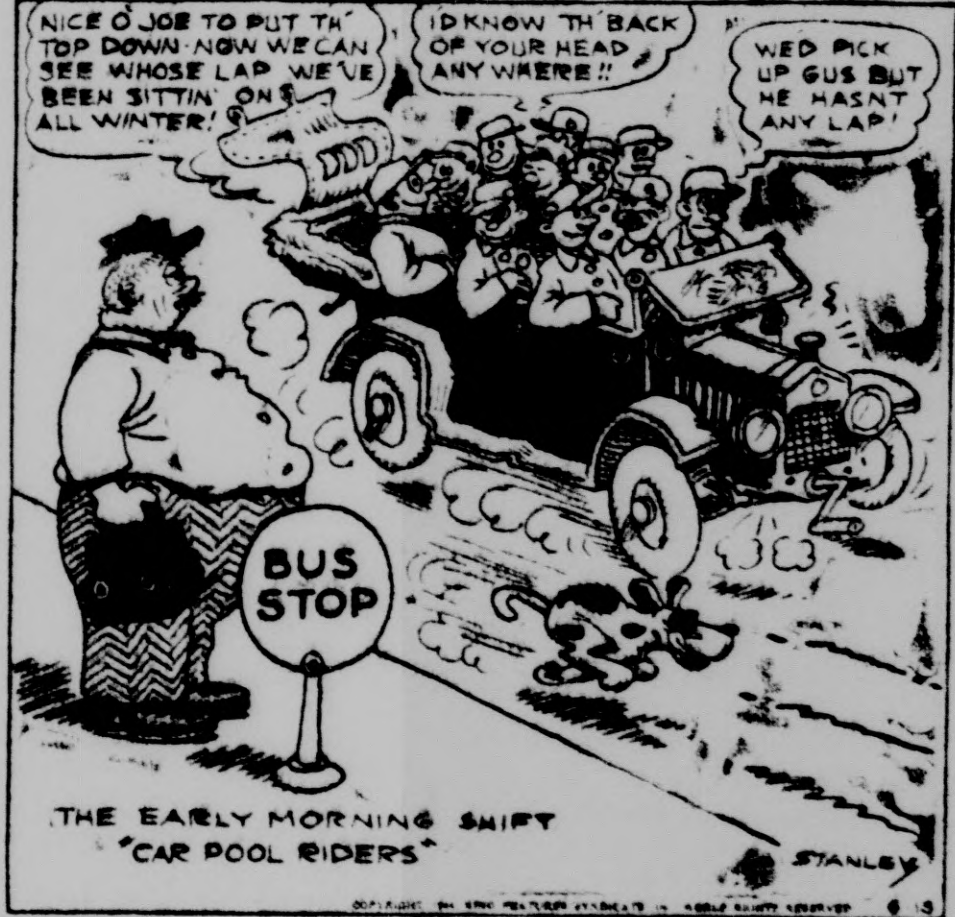

Crop Containers Somewhat Scarce

PITTSBURGH, June 13.—(INS)—William M. Walsh, area supervisor of the War Food Administration, today declared that a shortage of containers for apples and peaches seems likely with the present outlook pointing to a bumper crop of both.

"The rate of container production is on the downgrade," he explained, "and used containers, now scarce, may become scarcer because alert growers and shippers are buying good used ones."

Walsh advised growers to consider using whatever containers are available.

President Is Optimistic On War Situation

By JOHN N. BOOTH
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, June 13.—The office of war information is re-broadcasting to the war zones today President Roosevelt's optimistic war report in which he said the allies have achieved the impossible by breaching Hitler's fortress and declared that the Pacific conflict will end much more quickly than had been thought possible.

The president's message, viewed as the brightest since the start of the war, was made in a nationwide radio address opening the fifth war loan drive.

OWI said the speech is being beamed in all foreign languages, to allies and enemies alike in the European and Pacific zones, at regular intervals for 24 hours.

Mr. Roosevelt revealed that European invasion troops lack nothing in the way of equipment to carry out their "dangerous, stupendous undertaking."

He called Germany the first enemy on the list for destruction and said that nation has her back against the wall—"In fact three walls at once!"

The president said the German hold on Italy was broken and that the allies are pressing hard on the heels of German troops who were described as fleeing in ever-growing confusion.

Soviet Forces Poised
Mr. Roosevelt recalled the German debacle in Russia and pointed out that Soviet armies are poised for crushing new blows.

In drawing this optimistic picture of allied success, the president said it was appropriate to take a broad look at the panorama of world war on the opening of the fifth war loan drive.

Results of the drive, he declared, will have much to do with the speed with which the war can be brought to a successful conclusion.

The president commended the American people in these words:

"What has been done in the United States... In raising and equipping and transporting our fighting forces, and in producing weapons and supplies of war, has been nothing short of a miracle."

The president said the two-fold purpose of the air war in Europe—to destroy German war industry and to knock out the Luftwaffe—had been highly successful.

He remarked triumphantly that the German fighter force now has "only a fraction of its former power."

Of the invasion, the president conceded that the assault had been costly in men and materials.

"Some of our landings," he added, "were desperate adventures, but from advices received so far, the losses were lower than our commanders estimated would occur."

A large part of the message was concerned with a review of the war from June, 1942, when Germany controlled almost all of Europe and her armies were still plowing into Russia. Now, he said, the allies are on the offensive throughout the world.

Forty-Eight Fairs Scheduled For Year

Pennsylvania Association Lists More Fairs For Coming Season Than For 1943

While there is no possibility of any county fair in Lawrence county this year, due to abandonment of the New Castle fair grounds some few years since, there will be fairs in many other localities of the state, it is evident in an announcement from Harrisburg.

At one time Lawrence county had two fairs, one at Pulaski and one at the Harlansburg road fair grounds. The Pulaski fair was long since abandoned, and of recent years the New Castle fair folded up and followed it into local history.

According to the Pennsylvania Association of County Fairs, 48 have been listed so far, and all of them should make money, says the secretary-treasurer of the association, Charles W. Swoyer. Most of them will be devoted to produce and agricultural displays, rather than to farm machinery exhibits, he adds.

Most of the fairs will come off in August and September, although two are scheduled for July, and one, the Pittsburgh beet exhibit, will be December 11 to 13. Other Pittsburgh fairs will be the livestock exhibit on August 31 and the lamb exhibit on October 25 and 26.

The Stoneboro fair will last from August 31 until September 4. Butler's will be earlier in August, from the 15th to the 18th. The Mercer fair will be August 22 to 25.

September fairs will include one at Ford City on September 1, 2 and 4, and one at Ligonier from September 1 to 4. Four other fairs are slated for October and one in Pleasant Valley for November.

Skeleton Uncovered In Mine Operation

GROVE CITY, June 13.—A skeleton excavated during strip-mining operations by the Highland Fuel Co. at the Tanner farm in Wolf Creek township has aroused much speculation among the older residents of the Centertown district. There has been no burial in that area for at least 60 years, according to the consensus of opinion.

With the bones were found a number of nails, all that was left of the burial.

BOYS HEAD SOUTH IN HOME-MADE BOAT

GROVE CITY, June 13.—Bob Grabenhofer and Ray Dunkerley, each aged 16, are enroute to New Orleans by river in a home-made boat, equipped with sail and well stocked with food. They started from Beaver Falls. In the first three miles, relatives watched them carry around three dams, and they faced four other portages before reaching the Ohio. They plan to go from Louisiana to Florida by steamship before returning home.

TEACHING OF ENGLISH IN THE ELEMENTARY GRADES

Language is primarily a social thing, a means by which we give our experiences to others and get theirs in return.

JOHN DEWEY.

English is a social study. Everything the pupil does is done with, to, for, or on account of some other individual or group. All learning uses language and takes place in a social situation. In conversing, telephoning, discussing, dramatization, story telling, letter writing, and like activities, the pupil develops his language power. Vital and meaningful situations are found in the current life of the school, the home, and the community. Such situations, together with the social studies and natural science interests, become the core of the English curriculum. English must be integrated closely with all other subjects, and with the pupils' everyday activities in and out of school.

Every pupil needs two things—(1) motivation and (2) guidance. He needs to purpose, to plan, and to appraise, and to repeat this four-fold process over and over again. Since mere activity without purpose is wasteful, both of time and energy, the pupil needs guidance. Purposeful activity implies a problem situation that challenges a solution. In attacking and solving the problems, the pupil's personal interest furnishes the motive power. Such activity develops his initiative, resourcefulness, and self-direction. It is the natural way to learn.

Thus, children should be given opportunities for writing and speaking to real audiences, about real incidents, facts, and ideas. At the same time such guidance and assistance should be given by the teacher as well as to save the pupils from wasteful trial and error attempts to meet these occasions. This modern program assumes that the pupils will learn first by thinking and planning carefully. Then it expects him to execute and appraise his own work, thus discovering in what way it needs improvement. In this process the teacher becomes not a dictator, but a guide.

In meeting social situations, book using skills also must be acquired. The pupil must learn effectively indexes, tables of contents, the dictionary, the encyclopedia, and the library. They are a real part of the course in communication. Joy in reading and skill in reading for a purpose are essentials of good teaching.

The teacher of English should keep in mind constantly the fact that there are three major divisions to be observed in teaching language, namely: (1) Learning to speak effectively, or Speech; (2) Learning to write effectively, or Writing; (3) Learning to use Good Form, or Usage and Grammar. All three of these are important, but the first two are far more important than the last. In fact, unless the rules and principles of grammar function in improving speech and writing, there is no reason for teaching them. What is said or written is more important than how it is said or written.

Oral composition in any grade or group of grades may be discussed under the following headings, or "Strands of experiences."

- Conversation.
- Telephoning.
- Discussing and Planning.
- Telling Stories.
- Dramatization, Explaining and Giving Directions.

Oral communication, or speech, is vastly more important than writing.

An average adult speaks ten thousand words to every one he writes. Therefore, in all elementary grades, speech should receive the major portion of attention. Courses of study recommend giving three-fourths of the time to the development of fluent and effective speech.

The general objective for the teaching of English is to acquire the ability to express worthwhile thoughts consecutively, and interestingly in good English.

GIRL SCOUTS AID IN HOSPITAL WORK

GROVE CITY, June 13.—Twenty Girl Scouts, members of a new troop led by Miss Sally Soppitt, have completed training, and are working in groups of four at the Bashline-Rossman hospital, assisting the nurses. Later they will assist volunteer aides at the City hospital. They make beds, clean and dust rooms, care for flowers, carry trays and mail, fold surgical dressings and bandages and do surgical preparatory work, to relieve the help shortage. The Girl Scouts have trained six weeks for the work.

Salt isn't rationed, and if a bit is added to dried fruits when they are cooking, it will help to bring out their natural sweetness.

Readers Go Technical, Library Cards Reveal

List of New Books Shows Many Dealing With Technology Of War Industries

New Castle is going a little technical in its reading just now. At least those people who are who have been thinking of new jobs in war industry.

According to Miss Alice Sterling, head librarian, books on mathematics as applied to certain techniques are very much in demand just now. Some of the newer books on industrial subjects are "Airplane Hydraulic Systems" by H. C. Aument, "Materials Handbook" by G. S. Brady, "Basic Mathematics for War and Industry" by P. H. Daus,

"Plastics" by J. H. DuBois, "Navigation" by L. M. Kells, "Textiles" by M. S. Woolman and "Minerals" by H. S. Zim.

"The Raft Book" by Harold Gatty is another recent book, dealing with the "technology" of getting along on a raft. Although its descriptions of different birds and seaweed, its instructions about reading the stars and using a compass may be a little more than interesting reading to people in New Castle, the book is now part of the essential equipment issued with the rubber inflated rafts on planes in the South Pacific, Miss Sterling says.
